WEATHER INDICATIONS.

U. S. Department of Agriculture, Weather Bureau.
Toledo, O., Nov. 4, 1892.

The area of low pressure this morning covers the entire country from Lake Michigan eastward to the Atlantic coast, and as far south as Hatteras. It is being crowded eastward by an area of clearing conditions that covers the eastern Rocky Mountain slope. A second area of low pressure is advancing from the extreme northwest, but will not reach this section for several days.

During the past 24 hours light showers have fallen over almost the entire eastern half of the country. The weather continues cloudy and rainy over the greater portion of the country this morning with snow over over the upper lake region. Light showers will continue over the lake region to-day, followed by clearing weather to-night, and colder weather to-morrow.

The temperature has fallen or remained stationary over the entire country, and will fall during the next 36 hours over the eastern half of the country. It will rise in the extreme west and northwest.

Local forecast for Toledo and vicinity—On Friday, showers, followed by clearing weather to-night. On Saturday, fair, cooler.

E. A. HANNER, Observer.

One leads to the other. The "cutting" of prices leads to the substitution of worthless goods—fraudulent imitations of the genuine medicine, dilutions of it, all sorts of cheap substitutes to make a larger profit. That's the reason the makers of Dr. Pierce's medicines object to the cutting of prices—and that's the reason they prevent it, on their medicines.

To protect the public from fraud and imposition, the genuine guaranteed medicines of Dr. R. V. Pierce are now sold only through druggists regularly authorized as agents, and always at these long-established prices:

Golden Medical Discovery (for the liver, blood and lungs), ... $1.00.
Favorite Prescription (for woman's weaknesses and ailments), ... $1.00.
Pleasant Pellets (for the liver, stomach and bowels), ... 25 cents.

But they're the cheapest medicines sold, for you pay only for the good you get. The money is refunded if they don't benefit or cure. Beware of spurious imitations or substitutes at lower prices than above.

ONE BY ONE THE BOYS COME

New York, Nov. 4.—The Times this morning says: Mr. Seth Low, president of Columbia college, said yesterday to a reporter of the Times that he had decided to vote for Cleveland. Mr. Low has been one of the best known republicans in the state. He was twice elected mayor of Brooklyn as a republican candidate. Mr. Low was asked last night if he would give his reasons for deciding to vote for the democratic ticket.

He said that he did not care to make any public statement of his reasons for this decision. The report is true. Said Mr. Low: "I intend to vote for Mr. Cleveland, but I do not care to give out any statement in regard to the matter."

When asked if his decision was a recent one, Mr. Low replied: "It is quite recent."

A HEAVY VERDICT

Rendered in the Leader-Smyth Case.

Five Hundred Pounds Damages Awarded.

This Carries With It An Enormous Amount of Money in Costs.

London, Nov. 4.—The jury to-day in the suit of Mrs. Oliva Leader, wife of Lieut. Leader, of the British army, against Mrs. Eleanor Smyth, wife of Major General Smyth, of the British army, for damages for slander in having charged Mrs. Leader with the theft of a brooch, gave a verdict for Mrs. Leader for 500 pounds damages. This carries with it an enormous sum in costs.

The court room was again thronged with fashion and bright with military uniforms when the case was resumed this morning. Mrs. Leader, who had been somewhat depressed on the previous day, while Sir Edward Clarke was speaking, had a much brighter look when she took her seat to-day.

Mrs. Smyth chatted volubly with several ladies who were present to strengthen her through the ordeal. When the judge had taken his seat Counsellor Lockwood resumed his argument for the plaintiff. Mrs. Leader, he said, had ample means at the time when she was alleged to have committed a theft. The evidence of George Astley, the jeweler, who had sold the brooch to Mrs. Smyth and who was called as a witness in behalf of Mrs. Smyth, was really, counsel argued, strongly in favor of Mrs. Leader.

Mr. Astley had a private mark on the brooch which he sold to Mrs. Smyth, but admitted he was unable to find that mark on the brooch alleged to have been stolen. There was other and abundant evidence to establish the innocence of Mrs. Leader, and especially was there the evidence of Mrs. Smyth herself, when she first made the charge of theft, and that Mrs. Leader had visited her on the 22d of September, which would have made it impossible for Mrs. Leader to have taken the brooch.

Although Mrs. Smyth afterward changed the date, on learning that it would exculpate Mrs. Leader, yet that was no reason why the jury should disbelieve that Mrs. Smyth's first statement was incorrect.

Mr. Lockwood closed by expressing regret that his opponents, by refusing to admit that Mrs. Smyth might have been mistaken in her charge, left no alternative except to ask the jury for the exemplary damages. Applause followed the conclusion of Mr. Lockwood's argument.

The judge then proceeded to sum up the case. He commented on the nature of the defense, evidently leaning to the impression that Mrs. Leader was innocent of the charge. The judge added, however, that if the jury should conclude that Mrs. Smyth honestly believed the charge he had made to be true, they must take a different view of the subject of damage from what they would, if they believed that she had been malicious in the accusation. The jury repaired at 1:10 o'clock and were not long in coming to a verdict.

When the verdict was delivered there was a demonstration of applause and the majority of the spectators evidently hailed the result with delight. Mrs. Leader could not conceal her sense of gratitude and relief. She seemed about to faint, and her husband affectionately supported her. Then counsel and friends extended their congratulations to Lieut. and Mrs. Leader.

Mrs. Smyth turned red and pale by turns. She assumed a grim, stolid expression, and looked straight in front of her. Major General Smyth seemed about to have a stroke of apoplexy. His cheeks and neck grew very red and he glanced at the jury in a way that hinted what their fate might have been had they been soldiers under his command. The verdict was hailed with applause by the crowd outside, and is favorable received everywhere.

BAD INDIANS.

They Are Buying Much Powder and Ball.

Sioux City, Ia., Nov. 4.—Word was received from Deputy United States Marshal George Bartlett at Pine Ridge Agency, S. D., yesterday, that a party of Indians that recently sold their crops and stock to the government have left the agency and are in camp at some distance from the agency.

They refuse to trade at the agency and are buying all their provisions at the railroad stores. They are laying in a store of ammunition and the action is believed to be a sure sign of hostile intention.

THE GRIP AGAIN.

New York, Nov. 4.—The "grip" has made its first public appearance in this city since last fall. On the health board's bulletin yesterday were chronicled two deaths as follows: Female, afed 74, Nov. 1, la grippe; male, aged 24, Oct. 29, tuberculosis and la grippe.

The health department would give out no information as to the names or residences of the deceased. Dr. Nagle contented himself that there was no danger of an epidemic.

LOUIS, PASS THE BAIT

Republican Party in the State of New York

Is Greatly Alarmed at the Situation,

And is Resorting to the Silliest of Silly Twaddle to Gain Votes for Harrison.

Buffalo, Nov. 4.—(Special)—The republican party is greatly alarmed at the situation in this state. The tariff issues cannot be argued to their benefit, and the force bill cannot be defended, so the speakers are at their wits' ends to find something to interest their apathetic hearers.

Following is a sample of the brainy arguments of the dignified speakers, who claim that the sun rises done for republicanism and setting, blushes for the crime it has done.

Read the argument presented to the Buffalo imperial league of republican officeholders:

"It was the day of the battle of Resaca—a fearful fight. General Harrison was there on horseback. The smoke of carnage covered the field. The fate of the battle hung trembling in the balance when General Harrison turned in his saddle and shouted to his men: 'Charge, boys, charge,' and waving his sword aloft dashed into the thickest of the fight, and the day was won. Where was Citizen Cleveland on that eventful day? Do you know? I will tell you. He was down at Lewiston fishing at this very hour, and just as General Harrison was making his famous charge, Mr. Cleveland turned in his seat and said to Louis Goetz: 'Louis, pass the bait'"

IRISH AMERICANS.

They Will Vote the Democratic Ticket.

A Republican Club Hoists the Banner of Cleveland and Stevenson.

New York, Nov. 4.—A recent meeting of the Irish-American Anti-Cleveland and Protective league, a change of the political front was determined upon, involving the dissolution of the league under its present designation. A committee was appointed to formulate the why and wherefore of its radical change and the result is an address to the Irish-American voters signed by John Devoy, James Clancy, Michael Breslin, James Flynn, L. F. Fullman, Chris McCabe and James Pallas.

The document says that the Irish politicians who solicit Irish votes for Harrison "have all a personal and financial interest in the success of the republican party."

The address closes with an appeal to Irish-Americans to cast their votes for Cleveland and Stevenson.

Wil Be the Carmen's New Brotherhood.

Railroad Men Have a Surprise Party in Store for the Employers.

St. Louis, Nov. 4.—Grand Chief W. F. Missiner, of the Brotherhood of Carmen, of St. Joseph, Mo., is in the city on an important mission. He said yesterday while talking about the recent trouble between railroad employes and employers:

"We have a surprise in store for them in the shape of an international organization of railway employes, to include every railroad employe from the truckman up.

"This organization will be in shape before January and meetings in regard to it are being held all over the country. We have our plans ready, and all we want to do is to issue the final call.

"The organization will take all the brotherhoods now in existence and will have something like 180,000 members. Some of the leading railroad men of the country are back of the scheme."

Woodcock & Loring, who have been owners and proprietors of the Clifton for more than ten years, will retire from active business.

OH, WHAT A TANGLE

Testimony in the Gill Case Diversified.

Schmuhl Swears He Was At Neuendorf's Store,

And Neuendorf, Under Oath, Says Not.

The Cross-Examination by the State Interesting.

Mr. Tracy Keeps the Boys Running to Make Their Stories Jibe—Incidents of the Trial.

Councilman Schmuhl, witness for the defense, continued his testimony on cross-examination by the state when court convened this morning.

Mr. Tracy begun by asking Mr. Schmuhl if in his testimony in the Daly case he did not swear that there were only four persons at the first meeting at Neuendorf's store, to which Schmuhl replied that four was all he remembered.

"Then why did you testify yesterday that there were eight present?" said Mr. Tracy.

"Well, maybe I thought of some more."

"After this meeting broke up, where did you go?"

"Mr. Swain and I went down to Hanner's saloon on Adams street."

"Who did you see in there?"

"I don't know."

"Did you see Tanner?"

"I think he was there."

"Did you see Neuendorf?"

"He might have been there."

"Was Felker there?"

"I don't know."

"What did they do?"

"Nothing."

"You were there a half hour, as you say, and not a word was said?"

"Oh, we might have said something."

"Was there anything said about the meeting?"

"Yes, there might have been something said about the meeting."

"What did you say at the meeting?"

"Nothing."

"What did the others say?"

"Nothing that I heard."

"Did they not tell you what the meeting was held for?"

"No."

"Then you went to a meeting, stood around and said nothing, not knowing what you were there for and no one offered to explain?"

"They said what I told you before."

"Then they did say something?"

"Yes."

Mr. Tracy then referred to the meeting at Fisher's club house, at which Mr. Schmuhl was present.

The witness testified that there were present Daly, Swain, Gill, Neuendorf, Tanner, Felker and Taylor. That they just went out to have a little time, but they did gather in the summer house for a short time, and talked over some business; that Neuendorf spoke of receiving an offer of $25,000 in stock in some oil company for the passage of some ordinance, but he did not know what company or ordinance it was.

Wesley Chamberlain, Peter Munch, Geo. Scheets, Sanford Cook, and Barney R. Baker were called and testified to the defendant's good name and character previous to the present charge.

Councilman William H. Taylor was next called.

Mr. Taylor testified that at the meeting at Neuendorf's store there was no chairman elected, that no pledge was taken; nothing was said about assessing certain corporations money for influencing votes favorable to certain legislation, in fact denied point blank every statement made by Mr. Swain in his testimony, as to the meetings held and what had transpired. He was not postive whether Mr. Gill was present at the Fisher club house meeting. He knew of no arrangement for a meeting to be held at his store.

"Did the officers of the Pluto Oil company ever offer you money to influence your vote?" inquired Mr. Wright.

"We object," said Mr. Barber.

An argument followed and the court sustained the objection.

"The officers of this company are not on trial, and whether they went to every member of the council of the city of Toledo and offered them money; how could that effect this case?" said the court.

"Very much, your honor," replied Mr. Wright. "We think that if once we establish this fact, the oath of these officials should not have any weight."

"Indict them, then; indict them," said the court.

"We will, your honor. We will, or at least we will try to."

"Do you know where Neuendorf's store is located?"

"I do."

"Were you ever in his store after dark?"

"No, sir."

"Were you ever there when other councilmen were present?"

"I have met one or so of them during my calls. I think I met Mr. Hassenzahl once."

"Then during the months of May and June you swear that you were not in the store with any other members of the councilmen excepting the proprietor, day or evening?"

"Yes, sir."

"You also swear that you were not in the office of Frank C. Tanner day or night in the months of May or June?"

"I do."

"Swear whether you went into the office on the night you went down Cherry street with Mr. Schmuhl."

"I only looked in."

"Who was there?"

"Nobody. Mr. Tanner was just leaving."

"Was that on Monday or Thursday night?"

"I think Thursday."

"Where did you go after leaving the council meeting?"

"Down Adams street to Hanner's saloon."

"Who was with you?"

"Mr. Schmuhl."

"How long were you in Hanner's?"

"About three minutes."

"Then where did you go?"

"Mr. Schmuhl and I walked down Erie street towards Cherry street."

"W ahttime was that?"

"About 10 o'clock."

"Erie street towards Cherry is directly away from your home, is it not?"

"Yes, sir, but we went just for a little walk."

"Why did you walk down Erie to Cherry?"

"Wlle, I don't know."

"Did Mr. Schmuhl say where he was going?"

"No, just said we would take a little walk."

"Then he might have gone to Manhattan for a little walk."

"I did not care where we went."

Mr. Tracy then directed the examination to the meeting at Fisher's club house.

"You went out with Mr. Schmuhl?"

"I did."

"Did he tell you what he was going out for?"

"He said he had some business out there."

"Did he transact any business when he had arrived?"

"I don't know."

"Did you see him transact any business?"

"How did you come to go out there?"

"Well, the boys told me the night before that they were going out the next day to have a little time."

"What did you do when you were out there?"

"I went into the bar-room, drank a glass of beer, took a cigar and came away."

"Is that what you call a good time?"

"I did not go out for a good time, as I told you before that my business would not allow me to go out, and I told the boys so."

"But you did go?"

"Yes, sir."

The witness then denied that he attended any meeting; that there was anything said about the passage of the Pluto ordinance or price fixed.

Charles J. Kirschner was called and testified to Mr. Gill's good character.

Sylvester Brown testified to the same, and the defense offered to prove by this witness that the people of the Sixth ward were opposed to the pipe line ordinance.

The state objected, holding if the court would permit the issue to be taken up counsel was willing to go into it.

The objection was sustained.

The defense offered to prove by Mrs. William H. Taylor that an officer of the Pluto Oil company offered her husband $500 to vote for the ordinance in question.

The state objected, which was sustained.

The defense called Councilman Charles Neuendorf.

Mr. Neuendorf testified that a meeting of certain members of the council was held at his store. Mr. Swain suggested the meeting, and like the others Mr. Swain took him there. He testified that Swain Neuendorf, Tanner, Gill and Doner were present. He related the same story as the others did, about the object of the meeting, that they just met to consult as did each other in ward legislation; that there was nothing said about any particular legislation. Mr. Neuendorf likewise denied on direct examination Mr. Swain's testimony in detail, as to all meetings. He testified that Mr. Faskins was not present at all.

He admitted that something was said about taking Felker in, as he was a young man, and would be all right, and stated that they were there about 15 minutes and left at 11 o'clock.

At the meeting at Tanner's office he said Swain, Felker, Doner, Neuendorf and Gill were present. Also that Faskins was present at this meeting. Swain said something about the Monroe street pavement, and that was all that was said at that meeting. After some time Neuendorf stated that he had forgotten something; that there was something said about the Pluto Oil company; that Gill, Daly, Doner, or Taylor, he did not know just who, said they wanted the Pluto ordinance passed, and that he said he objected to it, because Hartford wanted him to, as did Billy Gill. He had just stated that Taylor was not present.

He went to Fisher's club house again on invitation extended by Mr. Swain; there was nothing done, but talk about the Pluto Oil ordinance. Felker announced that he intended to vote for it. He testified that the members of the council who were out there were not all together at one single time; also that he thought Taylor attended the meeting at Rutherford's store.

At Fisher's club house the witness testified that he told the boys that Machen offered him $25,000 worth of stock in the Pluto Oil company, and that Gill said in reply that he did not want to fool with those fellows.

The state then began the cross-examination of Mr. Neuendorf.

"You are Charles Neuendorf, who is indicted with the other councilmen?"

"Yes, sir."

"You say council and committee meetings usually adjourn about 11 o'clock?"

"About 10 o'clock."

"You say you walked down to the first meeting with Mr. Swain?"

"I did."

"Did Mr. Schmuhl walk down with you?"

"No, sir."

"Then if he testified that he walked down to the meeting at your store he was mistaken, was he not?"

"Yes, sir; he was."

"Was Mr. Schmuhl present at that meeting?"

"No, sir."

"Then if he testified that he was present at the first meeting at your store he was mistaken?"

"Yes, sir."

"You say you were only there about 15 minutes?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then if Mr. Schmuhl testified that the meeting lasted a half an hour he was mistaken?"

"Yes, sir."

"You say that Mr. Faskins was not present?"

"He was not."

"You testified in the Daly case, did you not, that Mr. Faskins was present, and that there was no reason why Faskins or any other could not attend?"

"I know that Faskins was present at one meeting, but I do not remember which."

"You say that Gill leaned up against the safe, Tanner against the desk, Doner was on a chair. Now tell us how you can remember the exact position of all present and now do not know whether Mr. Faskins was present or not?"

"I know he was at one of the meetings."

At this point court adjourned until 2 o'clock, and the cross-examination of Mr. Neuendorf was continued.

Yesterday's Testimony.

When court opened yesterday afternoon Judge Ritchie began the cross-examination of Mr. Machen.

"Mr. Machen, the interview you had with Mr. Gill on the night of the committee, was it private?"

"We were talking together. I do not remember whether there was anybody around or not."

"Who spoke of the passage of the ordinance first, you or he?"

"I did."

"You were particularly interested in its passage, were you not?"

"I was."

"Who spoke of the Paragon ordinance?"

"Mr. Gill."

"You had an interview at Mr. Gill's office, I believe?"

"Yes, sir."

"Were there any others present?"

"I do not think there were, although Judge McGahan was in the office."

"Did Judge McGahan hear any part of the conversation at the office?"

"I can not say."

The same examination was made as to the other interview, eliciting the same answer.

Mr. Machen stated that Judge McGahan was near when the conversation ensued between himself and Mr. Gill at the council chamber on the night the ordinance came up for passage, but he would not say whether the judge heard any of the conversation.

As to the interview in the council chamber on the night before July 4, Mr. Machen thought that the conversation was overheard by certain members of the councilmen.

Judge Ritchie put this question: "These interviews all occurred after the 21st of June, and after the interview with Mr. Swain did they not?"

"I had nothing to do with any interview with Mr. Swain."

"I did not say you did, sir. These conversations were all had after you had taken steps authorizing a prosecution, were they not?"

"We never authorized any one to prosecute."

"Mr. Machen, in all of these interviews were they not sought by you?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did Mr. Gill ever come to your office or seek you?"

"No, sir."

"Coming to the interview at the Pluto office, who suggested the arrangement of the office for the reception of these guests?"

"We all did."

"Who?"

"Mr. Bellman, Judge Lorenz, Geo. Lorenz and myself."

Cross-examination brought out as to the interview, that they had sent for Mr. Tanner, that he (Machen) was in the cellar when Mr. Tanner came and did not see him arrive or leave or at any time during his stay in the office. That he did not see Mr. Daly or Mr. Gill arrive or leave or at any time during their presence in the office.

The defense drew out that Mr. Machen had read the transcript of the stenographic notes in parts, about six times, that he glanced it over about five minutes this morning.

"You knew you was to be called as a witness, did you not?"

"Yes, sir."

"That you would be expected to testify this morning?"

"Yes, sir."

"And fearing to rely on memory you read the transcript?"

"I glanced over a smuch of it as I could to refresh my memory."

"You testified that you remembered the conversation that occurred in that office."

"I did."

"Then why did you read these notes?"

"Well, the transcript was taken in my presence, and while I cannot, from memory, relate any part of that transcript, I can, by reading it, remember the exact conversation as it occurred."

"That's all," said Judge Ritchie.

The state then called George E. Lorenz, treasurer of the Pluto Oil company, who gave in substance what Mr. Bassett and Mr. Machen had previously testified to.

On cross-examination, conducted by Mr. Wright, the witness testified that he was treasurer of the Pluto Oil company, and interested in securing the passage of the ordinance; that he attended the meetings of the aldermen and councilmen during the pending of his ordinance.

"Did Mr. Gill ever come to you in regard to this ordinance?"

"He did not."

"Did you send for Mr. Gill?"

"I stated that I would like to see him, and Tanner offered to go get him."

"Did you not send for other members of the council?"

"I did."

"Did you not send for Mr. Tanner?"

"I did, once."

"Will you say you did not send for Mr. Tanner twice?"

"I do not think I did."

"Did you send for Mr. Daly?"

"I do not remember whether I sent for Daly or whether Tanner offered to go and get him."

"Mr. Gill came to your office at your solicitation, did he not?"

"No, sir; at Mr. Daly's."

"Did you see Mr. Gill on June 21 before his arrival at your office, or did he seek you at any place or any time in regard to this matter?"

"Your questions are almost all conclusions," said the court. "Now put your questions direct. Your examination is around about and suggestive, for what purpose I do not know—no legitimate purpose, I am sure."

"We want to get to the point," said Mr. Wright.

"I do not think the purpose is to reach any point."

Judge Ritchie—"Did the stenographer get the last remark of the court?"

Judge Harmen—"The court will repeat its last remark if Judge Ritchie so elects."

The remark was repeated and Judge Ritchie noted an exception to the same.

"Did you ever offer Mr. Tanner $300 to vote for the ordinance?"

"I did not."

"Did Mr. Gill ever ask you for money for his vote for that ordinance?"

"I would take it that he did."

Did he ever ask you for any money before June 21?"

"He did not."

"What time did Mr. Gill come to your office?"

"Six-five p. m."

"What time did he leave?"

"Six-twenty-five."

Mr. Wright then endeavored to prove, as before, that Mr. Lorenz's motive was to intimidate the councilmen. He concluded at 4 o'clock.

The state called Frank N. Smith, bookkeeper for the Pluto Oil company. Mr. Smith testified as to the arrival and departure of Tanner, Daly and Gill. He was also in the cellar a portion of the time, and testified as to the conversation overheard by himself, corroborative of what has gone before in this regard.

Judge Ritchie conducted the cross-examination.

"You did not know Mr. Gill by sight, did you?"

"I did."

"During the interview with Daly and Tanner, you were in the front office?"

"No, sir; I was not in the building."

"You heard nothing of that conversation?"

"I did not."

"At whose suggestion did you go down below?"

"Either Henry or George Lorenz."

Witness testified that he did not see Tanner, Gill or Daly come or go or during their presence in the office, but relied upon what he heard: that he made a memorandum of the hour when the parties arrived and when they left. Nothing of any importance was brought out.

The state then introduced the articles of incorporation of the Pluto Oil company and the ordinance in question as evidence, after which the state rested.

The defense called B. F. Wade, who testified as to Mr. Gill's character. Mr. Wade was called out of order, inasmuch as the witness desired to leave the city.

Councilman Carl Schmurl was next called by the defense. He knew the defendant, and testified to being a member of the committee on streets: that there had been meetings of councilmen outside of the council chamber. He was present at the first meeting held at Neuendorf's store, on invitation of Mr. Swain. He said there were six or seven present when he arrived: that Tanner, Swain, Gill and Neuendorf were present. He also told the story of the object of these meetings. He did not hear anything said about a pledge, or any money consideration talked of. They were just there to talk over ward legislation and helping each other: that there was nothing said about the Pluto Oil company, the Warren-Scharf Paving company or any other corporation. He was there only about 35 minutes. He did not know who went away with him.

His direct examination as to the other meetings was on the same line. At the club house meeting he heard Neuendorf say something about some company offering $25,000 worth of stock to have some ordinance passed.

The state took the witness for cross-examination at 4:45 o'clock, conducted by Mr. Tracy. He denied that there was any reason for holding the meeting. He did not suggest that the council chamber was the proper place to hold the meeting. He did not know exactly what the meeting was for. He did not see the men all together in the office during that evening.

"Who did not go into the office?"

"Myself and Mr. Swain."

"Did Mr. Gill go into the office?"

"No."

"Where was he?"

"Out in the store with us."

"Was Mr. Doner there?"

"I don't know."

"Was Mr. Tanner there?"

"I guess he was."

"Was Mr. Hake there?"

"No."

"Was Mr. Walker there?"

"No."

"You are sure Mr. Doner was there?"

"I think he was."

"Did you hear Mr. Doner say anything?"

"Well, I don't know."

"Did you hear Mr. Rutherford say anything?"

"Not while I was there."

"Are you sure Mr. Rutherford was there?"

"Well, I don't know."

"Was Faskins there?"

"I am not sure."

"Did you have any light?"

"Yes."

"Where was it?"

"In the office."

"Did you have more than one light?"

"No."

"And that was in the office?"

"Yes."

"Then the men at the back end of the store were in the dark?"

"Well, I don't know."

Thus Mr. Schmuhl testified all the way through the first meeting, at which time the court adjourned.

FOLDING BEDS

You Can Do Almost Anything

With our Goshen folding bed. There used to be an idea that two into one wouldn't go; this bed upsets the notion completely. It doesn't, like the chameleon, change its color, but it does change its character, and it is as handsome as a bed at night as it is as a book-case in the day-time. It is one of the happiest combinations of modern ingenuity, and in an instant it turns your sleeping apartment into a handsomely appointed library. Perhaps you have an idea that this double advantage carries with it a double cost. It does not. Call and see it and learn the price.

THE CRY OF "NO POPE"

Has Excited the People of London.

Demonstration Against a Catholic Officer.

Police Will Be Increased With the Idea of Putting Down Any Riotous Proceedings.

London, Nov. 4.—There was a conference to-day between the representatives of the home office and the chief officials of the Metropolitan police relative to the precautions for the preservation of the peace upon the occasion of the lord mayor's parade on Wednesday next.

It has always been the practice to bring the entire reserve force for duty within the city limits during the hours occupied by the procession in passing to and from Guild Hall, but extraordinary precautions have been regarded as necessary this year owing to the report that the "No Popery association," an organization controlled by a few men tinctured through and through with bigotry, are laying the wires for a formidable demonstration against Lord Mayor-elect Knill because of his affiliation with the Catholic church.

So far as is known the police have not got on to the complete details of the scheme, but to-day's conference decided that over a thousand detectives in plain clothes should be scattered in the crowd along Cheapside, Threadneedle street and the Thames embankment: that companies of police should be massed at convenient points outside of the crowd, and that, should the slightest attempt be made to create a disturbance or foment any unruly demonstration upon the approach of the lord mayor's carriage, the detectives should at once seize the ring leader and signal the nearest company of police in waiting to clear the streets.

There has been some talk of abandoning the procession in order to thwart the designs of the agitators, but it is held that this would be establishing a dangerous precedent, and that it would be better to meet any trouble fomented by the plotters with the strong arm of the law.

CASE FOR DOCTORS.

Was It Whisky or a Case of Hydrophobia?

Lawrenceburg, Ind., Nov. 4.—John Lochner, aged 36, was bitten yesterday by a strange cat, supposed to be mad. The wound at first did not give him any uneasiness, but within a few minutes his hand began to swell in an alarming manner.

The unfortunate man was seized with fear of hydrophobia and drank enormous quantities of whisky to avert the danger, he imagined was threatening him, and within three hours he was dead.

Physicians are puzzled to know whether Lochner died of hydrophobia, alcohol poisoning or simple fear. He was married and lived with his family on Ridge avenue. He was a son-in-law of Nicholas Oester, the wealthy distiller.

THEY USED THE WEED.

Tobacco Anniversary Held in London.

It Has Been Four Hundred Years Since the Article Was Discovered.

London, Nov. 4.—It is four hundred years since the Caucasian race became addicted to the pleasure, or the vice, of the weed, according as it is regarded by smokers and non-smokers, and to-day the 400th anniversary of the discovery of tobacco is being celebrated by a reunion of the leading wholesale manufacturers and extensive retail dealers, and at which many interior towns are represented.

From among the participants was a member of the Society of the Friends, or a Quaker, whose family has conducted one of the largest manufacturies of tobacco in the country and the products of which go into every part of the civilized globe, notwithstanding this fact, not one of the family in the century has been addicted to either smoking or chewing.

At a banquet which followed the reunion, the chairman read the celebrated proclamation against tobacco and its use, issued by King James I., and an interesting historical paper told how Columbus, on landing at San Salvador, was received by a party of natives who were smoking rolls of dry herbs, the smoke from which issued from their mouth and nostrils. Columbus was induced to follow their example and on his return to his native land, the use of the weed speedily became the rage.

BIG LAND SUIT.

Thirty-three Miles of the State in Litigation.

St. Marys, O., Nov. 4.—(Special)—A claim has just been filed in the United States court of Colorado by Benjamin Hodges and other relatives, of Rockford, Mercer county, which involves a tract of land 33 miles square in the southwestern corner of that state, claiming that the grant was made to Senor Corpus Christi by the king of Spain 21 years ago.

The plaintiffs, Benjamin Hodges and others, are great-grandchildren of the ancient senor. The United States government and all persons laying claim to any part of the land are defendants. Several towns in the southwest portion of Colorado are situated on these lands. The Hodges have great faith in winning their case.

REVENGE AFLOAT.

London, Nov. 4.—The first-class screw battleship Revenge was successfully launched to-day at the Armstrong yard, Jarrow-on-Tyne.

IT COMES HIGH.

Politics Cost the People Much Money.

William C. Whitney and Mayor Grace Are Hustlers.

New York, Nov. 3.—The Sun says: Submitted herewith is the authoritative statement of the expenses of this campaign up to date. It is not hearsay evidence, it comes from the highest sources. In the first place, the nomination of President Harrison at Minneapolis cost $100,000. This money was used in paying expenses of the delegations, "a little short of funds when they got on the ground." Since then the republicans have raised $2,500,000, of which President Harrison and cabinet contributed $42,000. Stephen B. Elkins and John Wanamaker are not included. The expenses of the democrats in the national fight date from February 22 last, when at Albany the anti-snap movement was inaugurated. Ex-Mayor William R. Grace, as the head of that movement, demonstrated that he was no mean money getter. Headquarters were opened in New York, attached to which was a big literary bureau all in the interest of Mr. Cleveland's nomination. The Syracuse convention was an expensive affair. Free railroad tickets were provided, but prior to that the expenses of the delegates had to be met. The charge of the anti-snappers on Chicago also cost something. Altogether the anti-snap movement cost $200,000. The nomination of Mr. Cleveland at Chicago cost approximately $300,000. This statement is made on the authority of a member of the national democratic committee. The democrats have been compelled to face the same increased expenses in the different states that their republican adversaries have. The expenses at national headquarters have been larger proportionately than at Mr. Carter's shop. The democratic committee has been compelled each week to face a salary list two yards long. Ex-President Cleveland and the members of his cabinet have contributed $60,000. This does not include the money raised by Mr. Whitney in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Cleveland, and Boston. The distribution of funds from the two headquarters in the last two days will perhaps demonstrate clearly more than anything else just where the fight is. There may be one or two errors in the republican schedule, for the reason that one or two statements could not actually be confirmed, but it is approximately correct. The republican schedule is as follows: New York, $600,000; New York city, $50,000; Indiana, $25,000; Connecticut, $100,000; Alabama, $100,000; Delaware, $25,000. Total, $1,250,000. Funds have also been sent to Virginia, Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, and Kansas. The democratic schedule is correct. It is furnished by an eminent authority. The funds distributed by the democrats within the last 48 hours have been sent as follows: New York state, $300,000; New York city, $100,000; Indiana, $140,000; Ohio, $50,000; Virginia, $15,000; West Virginia, $35,000; Connecticut, $75,000; North Carolina, $40,000. Total, $755,000.

In the foregoing schedule the amounts sent into New Jersey and distributed from the branch headquarters of the national democratic committee in Chicago are not included. These amounts could not be ascertained. It will appear, therefore, that this is neither a "crow" nor a "boodle" campaign. The battle to be fought Tuesday next will be determined by the issues of the campaign notwithstanding the comments to the contrary.

CASE OF PROF. BRIGGS.

The Public Will Be Allowed to See the Show

The Charges Have Been Prepared and the Trial Will Soon Commence.

New York, Nov. 4.—The committee on prosecution which has charge of the proceedings against Prof. Briggs, and which is composed of Drs. G. W. F. Burch, Robert F. Samples, J. J. Lampe, Col. John J. McCook and Prof. J. J. Stevenson, have about completed the arrangements for the forthcoming trial.

It will open in the main audience room of the Scotch Presbyterian church, Nov. 9th, and continue each afternoon, except Saturday and Sunday, until the evidence is all in and a decision rendered.

The press and the public will be admitted, but should the spectators show any disposition to indulge in applause or dissent the galleries will be cleared, and the remainder of the proceedings take place in executive session.

There will be two separate allegations in the charges against the now famous professor.

It will be alleged that he has taught and is still teaching doctrines which conflict irreconcilably with, and are contrary to, the cardinal doctrine taught in the Holy Scriptures and contained in the standards of the Presbyterian church, viz.: that the scriptures of the Old and New Testament are the only infallible rule of faith and practice.

It will also be charged that the professor has been given to the teaching of doctrines concerning the character, state and sanctification of believers after death which conflict irreconcilably with the Holy Scriptures, and with the standards of the Presbyterian church, and are contrary thereto.

The agitation over the alleged heresy of the learned professor has pervaded Presbyterian circles for a full year, and the outcome of the trial will be awaited with interest in circles of that denomination over the entire world.

ROBERT L. M'ELROY, - 209 AND 211 SUMMIT STREET.

IN HARTER'S DISTRICT.

The Signs Point to Democratic Success.

Johnson Is Losing Ground Rapidly Among His Home People.

Mansfield, O., Nov. 4.—(Special)—Consternation has been produced in the republican campaign by the flopping of Peter Bissman, a lifelong republican and wealthy wholesale grocer, to the democratic cause.

He is with Mr. Harter upon the stump and making most effective speeches for reform in the iniquitous McKinley bill. While he is not an orator in the Ciceronian view of that function, yet in plain speech and in the vast reservoir of business facts, he is easily equal to the framer of the calamitous measure himself. He employs the grocery facts of ordinary domestic life with telling effect.

A letter from Deacon John T. Peck, of Oberlin, also a republican, claims that Russia township, hitherto good for 350 republican, will give a majority vote for Mr. Harter, purely upon the grounds of good morals and high character in the candidate, and Lorain county cannot be counted for more than 1,000 plurality for Johnson, the Foraker candidate.

Your correspondent to-day interviewed Mr. F. M. Roth, chairman of the Huron county committee, and while he is disposed to believe that 500 will be tre real margin obtained by Johnson in that county, in all calmness he is not disposed to admit that it can possibly over-reach 600.

Representative Beard, of Ashland, simply declares that that county will be true as ever to the democratic faith and her plurality up as usual. The Hon. Leckey Harper, of Mt. Vernon, well known in the newspaper and political field, will not allow the cockles of his heart to be too much inflamed in any campaign, and, therefore, only claims Knox county by 150, a gain of about 100 for Harter.

There is unmistakable evidence on every side and in every precinct your correspondent has traversed that the Johnson men are badly demoralized. Tracing their line of tactics in republican newspapers, it seems to have simmered down exclusively to the endeavor to cajole the liquor vote here and the temperance vote in other localities. This cannot prove effective, for Mr. Harter's personal habits and also his entire liberty of views in respect to others are too well known to be dislodged from the minds of either liquor dealers, prohibitionists or temperate people.

The closing week of the canvass opens most auspiciously, without one foot of ground being lost and a constant advance being witnessed on the ramparts of our friends, the enemy. There is no reason to change the prediction of last week that Mr. Harter will have a plurality of from 800 to 1,000.

GROWING ALARMED.

Incendiary Fires at Beaver Falls.

Police and Citizens Turn Out to Hunt Down the Fire Bugs.

Beaver Falls, Pa., Nov. 4.—Great excitement prevails in this city. Numerous incendiary fires have occurred in the past two days. Early last evening the Hubbard Axe company was damaged to the extent of $3,000. Later several store rooms on Seventh avenue were completely gutted and two families were rescued with difficulty.

At 11 o'clock it was discovered that a deliberate attempt had been made to burn the barn of a man named Remlar. The greatest excitement prevailed. A vigilance committee is being formed and a determined effort made to run down the fiends. Citizens are doing police duty in patroling the streets.

WENT ASHORE.

A British War Ship Pile Up on the Rocks.

London, Nov. 4.—H. M. S. Howe is ashore on the reef inside the bar at Ferrol on the bay of Betanzis on the west coast of Spain. The reef is known as Pereiro. Ferrol is one of the most important arsenels in Spain. There are vast shipyards there. Every facility and assistance is being given by the authorities. The ship is being lightened and her officers hope soon to have her floating. She was steaming at the rate of seven knots when she struck.

A great hole was torn in her hull and the water rushed into her engine room, extinguishing the fires. Ferrol has one of the best harbors in Europe, being almost land locked; its only entrance is a narrow strait. If calm weather continues it is probable she will be floated shortly. It is fortunate that she is close to a place so well equipped with workshop and docks that almost any repairs can be made. The Howe is a ship of the Admiral class, carrying 10 guns and has a displacement of 10,300 tons. She is one of the channel squadron.

WOULDN'T BE STOPPED.

Mrs. Lease Bound to Have Her Say.

An Exciting Scene in the Topeka Opera House During a Meeting.

Topeka, Ks., Nov. 4.—W. C. Jones of the democratic committee, presided over last night's Populist rally, and after Gen. Weaver had concluded a speech of two hours the crowd waited to hear Mrs. Lease and began calling for her.

Chairman Jones announced that Mrs. Lease had left to catch a train, but no sooner had he done so than the indignant Populist appeared from behind the scenes of the opera house and shouted in a loud melodramic voice: "Mrs. Lease is here and demands permission to speak to the people of Kansas."

Senator Peffer and Gen. Weaver tried in vain to pacify her, and she began her speech to the crowd amid wild enthusiasm. She denounced the politicians who were running the fusion campaign and declared that the people must assert themselves.

After the meeting Mrs. Lease hunted up Chairman Jones and declared that she would cancel all of her Kansas dates.

DEAD OR ALIVE.

The Christie Gang Must Be Captured.

A Posse of United States Marshals Are Having a Warm Time.

Tahlequah, I. T., Nov. 4.—Another desperate battle has occurred between a posse of deputy United States marshals and the notorious Ned Christie, who, a few days ago, escaped from their clutches. Learning that Christie and his gang had returned to their cabin fort in the Caney mountains, United States Marshal Yoes got together a force of 50 detrmined deputies and sent them to renew the attack.

They were led by Deputy Marshal White, reputed to be one of the bravest men in this county.

It was learned here yesterday that the party reached the fort and made an attack Wednesday night.

Arch Wolf, one of the outlaws, was killed and several of the marshals are wounded. It is impossible to get accurate particulars.

When the marshals surrounded the house they waited for Christie to show himself, but he did not appear.

Wolf came out of the house at daylight and was ordered to surrender. He refused and started to run back into the house, when he was fired upon and fell mortally wounded, but managed to crawl back in.

Immediately the gang opened fire on the marshals, and a number of them were hit.

A perfect fusilade of firing has been kept up between the opposing parties all day, and it is feared that many are killed. A wagon load of arms, ammunition and provisions has been sent out from here, and the marshals will settle down to a regular siege. Their orders are to get the gang, dead or alive.

On November 4, 1791, General St. Claire, with 2,000 men, was totally defeated by the Indians on a tributary of the Wabash.

The savages made the attack while the troops were preparing breakfast, and in the confusion over 800 soldiers were killed. St. Claire, after having three horses shot under him, with difficulty effected his escape to Fort Washington, now Cincinnati.

CENTRAL LABOR UNION.

A Liberal Donation to Locked-Out Steel Workers.

The Central Labor union last night received as delegate Charles Blaker, from the Furniture Workers, and John Reke from the Woodworkers.

The committee on open meeting set for November 22, reported completion of the program. The selection of a delegate to the A. F. L. convention was put off till next meeting.

Representatives of the advisory committee of the locked-out Homestead iron and steel workers, R. Hartwell and Jas. Bakewell, were heard. They came to appeal to the unions and public of Toledo for aid for the workingmen in their fight against the attack on labor organizations. The sum of $200 was voted, and Messrs. Stroehline and Otto appointed to aid the visitors in their work in canvassing among business men and citizens generally. The different unions were requested to vote something.

The Toledo local of the Amalgamated association of Iron and Steel Workers has appointed Messrs. Wells, Harris and Prill a committee to assist in securing subscriptions for the benefit of the locked-out Homestead men.

Toledo Lodge of the Machinists' association has received a number of letters in regard to the proposed state convention at Tiffin on December 3, to form a district lodge.

TALK WITH CHICAGO.

A Chat Over the Long Distance Telephone.

This morning a Bee had a chance to talk over the long-distance telephone with Mr. Mosley, in the Chicago office. The voice of the man more than 200 miles away was heard as distinctly as if he were talking through a good speaking-tube from an adjoining room.

Mr. Carl, who is here making final preparations for the offices in Toledo, said:

"People here can now talk with New York or Chicago, or other points on our lines by going to the local telephone exchange, and can ascertain rates by applying to Mr. Cherry. We are arranging to furnish the election returns to the Toledo club by direct telephone from New York, on Tuesday night, and the club will display them. We will have an instrument in the club rooms.

"I will be here for a week or two and will call on business people and present the matter to them and explain our manner of doing business, and make contracts with those who desire. We will give the business public a chance to test the line and its workings, and be glad to show anybody how it works. We can put long-distance telephones in offices, thus giving direct communication with New York and Chicago. In New York we have an arrangement with some of the large companies, the directors of which live in different parts of the country, whereby they hold their monthly meetings by telephone instead of making long trips by rail.

GEN. SAM WYLIE CRAWFORD.

He Dies in Philadelphia of Apoplexy.

Philadelphia, Nov. 4.—Gen. Samuel Wylie Crawford died last night of apoplexy, which had been superinduced by an old wound received during the civil war. Gen. Crawford was a native of this city, was 57 years of age and unmarried.

At the outbreak of the war he was at Fort Sumter, where he was serving as a surgeon in the regular army. For gallant conduct President Lincoln appointed him major of a Pennsylvania regiment, from which rank he was soon promoted to that of major general of volunteers.

At Gettysburg he commanded the Pennsylvania reserves and won much credit for himself and soldiers. After the war, in order to preserve the historic features of that great scene of carnage, Gen. Crawford purchased the ground occupied by his command.

HOMESTEAD MEN.

An Accredited Committee Seeking Aid

From the Public—The Locked-Out Workmen Still Firm and More Hopeful Than Ever of Victory.

Richard Hartwell and James Bakewell, the two men from Homestead, Pa., now here securing aid for the locked out iron and steel workers, are stopping at Prill's hotel on Cherry street, the proprietor of which house is an old member of the Amalgamated association, and insisted that they should stay with him and wait forever for their bill. The two were seen together to-day and said: "We arrived here Monday night and have been well treated by all the organizations we have visited. The Central Labor union appointed a committee to go round with us, and the Amalgamated men of Toledo did the same.

"We left the men at Homestead in good spirits, and prospects for victory are brighter than ever, on account of the fact that the Carnegie company is unable to get competent men to run its works. Machinery and furnaces have been ruined by incompetent workmen. The government has taken away the contract for armor plate. In cities we have visited there are buildings, shipyards and boiler works waiting on material from the Carnegies, which prove they are not running the mills so successfully as they claim.

"We want to deny the statement made that our men are returning to work. Not more than 30 have done so, and not more than six are skilled mechanics, and they are all people we never had confidence in. Some who have applied for positions at other places have been told they could not be taken, no Homestead men were wanted. The men are as firm to-day as at any time, and look for victory in a short time. They have no intention of surrender. Starvation is the only thing that would drive them to such a deal.

"We also wish to deny that our men received such high wages as is generally supposed and that the low-paid men are out to support the wages of the high-paid men. There was no reduction of the high-priced men. In fact some of them were offered greatly advanced wages to retain them. The fight is for the 14-cents-per-hour men as well as for the high-paid men. There were about 13 rollers receiving about $7.50 a day; about 46 received from $5 to $7; about 54 $4 to $5; 1,677 got $1.68 to $2.50 a day, and 1,631 were paid 14 cents per hour, or $1.40 a day.

"Not more than 10 per cent. of the men own their homes. About 15 per cent. have houses mortgaged."

The men went over the attempts of the Carnegie Steel company to break up the association, the trouble over the signing of the scale, the fight by Frick on the organization, and his campaign with Pinkerton's and the steamers Tide and Little Bill, and said: "The company made a demand for a 10 to 40 per cent. reduction, also for the expiration of the scale in January, the worst time of the year for the men, and the conflict was inevitable. There are about 3,400 locked out at Homestead, about the same number at Pittsburg and Beaver Falls for sympathy with the men at Homestead. A great many do not belong to the association, but all are treated alike, and every cent contributed will be economically expended and rigidly accounted for. This is the plan: A man gets an order on a grocery, according to the number of his family, and the treasurer pays for all orders on Monday morning, thereby giving assurance that every cent will be used for legitimate purposes.

"We will be here till Tuesday or Wednesday next."

Mr. Prill was quite enthusiastic over a proposition to get the White Slave company to give a Sunday entertainment, as the author, Bartley Campbell, is an old Pittsburger. Mr. Prill will also have a paper indorsed by the railway brotherhoods for subscriptions by railroad men to the Homestead men.

A. G. Otto said this morning: "I have been with these two Pittsburg men a great deal since they have been here, and have not heard a profane word or a vulgar expression from either of them."

BRITISH BARK BURNED.

The Norcross' Petroleum Takes Fire.

Three, and Possibly Ten Lives Were Lost by the Disaster.

Paris, Nov. 4.—The British barque Norcross, which left Philadelphia on Oct. 2 for Rouel, France, with a load of petroleum, has been burned in the Seine with a loss of three and probably ten lives.

Capt. Roop, who was in command of the Norcross, had his wife with him and both were saved.

How the fire originated is not known. When it was discovered it had gained considerable headway and every effort to prevent it from spreading to the petroleum was in vain.

As soon as the petroleum caught fire an explosion followed and a bright flame shot up into the air where the dense smoke almost hid the bark from those on shore.

The crew rushed to the side and leaped into the water. The captain's wife was saved chiefly by her husband's exertions. Five others were also saved. The remains of three horribly burned were found in the river and seven others are missing, and it is thought they have gone to the bottom.

Several of the survivors were injured by the burning petroleum, which floated on the water in a firey state some distance about the vessel.

FARMERS PROTEST.

Edinburgh, Nov. 4.—The slaughter of 1,200 head of cattle, brought from Canada to Scotland on the steamships Huron and Monskeaton and supposed to be infected with pleuro-pneumonia, has caused many protests from the farmers of Fifeshire, Forthshire and Forfarshire.

AT THE BOOK COUNTERS.

Selections Indicative of the Buyer's Life and Habits

While waiting for change—that trying period that always seems so much longer than it really is—it was interesting to note the purchasers of books, who told to the observer by their selections just what sort of life they led in and out of the world of literature.

A prim, pale little creature in a gray gown with a close-fitting little bonnet, a sweet, though sad expression, as though she had learned life's lesson through many sorrowful experiences, inquired in just the voice to match gown and face for "Stop and Think."

Now, couldn't you conjure up the vision of this sweet-faced woman surrounded by her class of Sunday school scholars, for one of whom the little work was designed to be a help to overcome a temper at times too violent.

A tall, angular, spectacled person, in a tailor-made gown, desired "The Chautauqua Course." No doubt about her—serenely literary and inclined toward blue stockingism. A worried little creature, plump as a pigeon, with such a pretty up-to-date costume and a suspiciously new plain gold ring on the hand that was ungloved, was in great doubt as to whether Mrs. Rorer's or Marion Harland's cook book was the best. Poor little beginner at housekeeping. The honeymoon has waned and bread-making and pie-baking now take the place of moonlight strolls and impassioned sonnets.

A very much beribboned skye terrier with a collar of bells accompanied an over-dressed mistress, who, with her bangled ringlets, her clinking bangles and her little sharp teeth, as not altogether uncanine in her appearance herself. Nothing very deep would this customer select, certainly—no, indeed. "A Mad Betrothal" was bought and paid for, and as our change appeared it occurred to us that surely no truer saying was ever uttered than that which promises to tell the sort of a man he is by the books he reads.

THE BLADE ON ASHLEY.

"Corrupt and shameless conduct in employing his official position to secure the appointment of a man to an important territorial office for the avowed and exclusive purpose of feathering his own nest with ill-gotten and illegal gains."—Blade, Sept. 18, 1862.

TO AGENTS.

Interest will center all of next week in the election returns. The Bee has arranged for the fullest details. In order that the demand for papers may be supplied, orders for extra copies should reach the business department by Monday, or early on Tuesday.

Agents, send in your orders at once.

THE BEE'S ELECTION RETURNS

The Bee, always ready to cater to the wants of the people, has perfected arrangements to display the election returns next Tuesday evening, with the aid of a stereopticon, in front of the office. The news will be received in the building over the Bee's wires, and the information given immediately.

Every Toledoan is interested in the election, and recognizing this fact, all possible diligence will be used to accommodate and give reliable returns.

Byron Ritchie will defeat Ashley. This is settled.

Just a few days more, and then the great democratic victory!

Byron Ritchie and L. C. Cole will speak at Perrysburg next Monday.

Two projected new banks in one week is not a bad record for the city.

Democrats, aid the campaign committee. Popular subscriptions will do it.

Look again at the object lesson on harbor appropriations at the head of this column.

Two things to be wiped out for the good of saint and sinner—Moxieism and Ashleyism.

Judge Scribner should have every vote in Lucas county. He deserves just such a compliment.

Help get out the vote next Tuesday in Lucas county, and there will be democratic rejoicing in Toledo.

An illustration is given in another column as to how the people can vote the ticket next Tuesday to make it count.

Jake Kohn is now disturbing republican rest. Gus Wendt will feel the wrath of the soldier veterans of Toledo next Tuesday.

Fifty-two Seventh ward republicans have agreed to vote against Ashley, and all the precincts have not been heard from.

As conservative a newspaper as the Chicago Herald is of the opinion that there is no doubt of Cleveland's election. So say all of us.

As soon as election is over, Toledoans will be entertained with the Bower impeachment trial. These be lively times in the Future Great.

In two days of this week twelve prominent Minnesota republicans renounced their allegiance to party and will vote for Cleveland and tariff reform.

J. H. Wylie has no axes to grind in the council. He will represent the Second ward, and labor for the good of the taxpayers generally. Vote for him.

"Pay two per cent., or find another situation" is the terms of the republican circular to government employes. And this is a free country, with a civil service law, too.

The reform wheel at police headquarters is having another turn, but in a style that smacks of the second condition being worse than the first. Great is reform and greater the reformers.

Gen. Stevenson, the democratic nominee for vice president, is closing his good campaign work in his own state of Illinois. He is confident of victory for the cause next Tuesday.

Put an X at the head of the democratic ticket, and that will answer for a vote for every nominee, from Grover Cleveland at the top to Joseph Gates, infirmary director, at the bottom.

Manager Frick is still in New York assisting the national republican committee. Frick is a great protectionist, in love with the workingman. Of course, Homestead must not be thought of in this connection.

The Australian ballot stands as a protection to the workingman who is sought to be intimidated. Listen to their tale of woe, but put a X at the head of the democratic ticket when the voting booth is reached.

The republican fat-fryers are no respecters of persons. The meagerly-paid girl type-writers in the Washington departments were compelled to give up a portion of their salaries this week for the corruption fund.

Oregon township Germans have not retracted the statement made by their delegates in the congressional convention that Ashley would not secure a vote among them at the election. They meant just what was said.

Those who have a good excuse for failure to register on the regular days can make it known to-day and to-morrow to the board of elections, and they will undoubtedly receive an order to be placed on the voting list.

Attorney-General Miller takes time by the forelock, and announces his determination to retire from the cabinet after the election. There are others comprising the cabinet who will also retire, not later than the fourth of next March.

Local republicans, enthusiastic Ashley men, too, have now got down to claiming that their chief will have 500 majority in the district. By Tuesday night these gentlemen will be willing to concede defeat. Vote for Ritchie.

Col. Smead is the only Foraker republican in Lucas county who could be coaxed before an audience to make a few remarks for Ashley, and he took to the country. This magnanimity probably grew out of the Colonel's proclivity to help the under dog in a fight.

The nominee for common pleas judge in the Wood-Hancock-Seneca district, Mr. John W. Schaufelberger, is a leading attorney and deserves election to the bench. A sketch of this gentleman appears elsewhere. Despicable tricks have been resorted to to defeat him, but they will not succeed.

Will the Blade tell an inquiring public where Hon. C. P. Griffin is at? And Kent Hamilton, and John Kumler, and Jocob Romeis, and ex-Senator Brown, and Judge Ritchie, and Mayor Emmick, and Solicitor Read? But why become inquisitive. The list of good republicans who are not "at" in this campaign are quite numerous.

Frick, the indicted murderer of Homestead strikers, contributes $250,000 to the republican corruption fund. This, it is supposed, will offset the revolt of ironworkers against the Carnegie-Frick combine to elect Harrison. If it was the last thing the ironworker and workingman generally ever did, it should be to rebuke the insult by voting the democratic ticket.

Democrats do not propose to be bulldozed by the appointment of deputy United States marshals when the republicans are in need of party workers. All that is asked by the democracy is a full and free ballot, with a fair count, and will be satisfied with nothing less. The opposition have no right to pay their ward heelers out of the national treasury.

BUSINESS MEN, REFLECT.

What employer of labor in Toledo would trust for a moment a servant who lacked honesty and truthfulness? They are the first and indispensable requisites of a good servant. Without these qualifications the services of the most capable are worse than worthless.

All business transactions are based on good faith.

All contracts are based on good faith.

The contract, written or verbal, between the employer and his workmen are based on good faith.

Every business transaction from the bootblack on the corner to the largest deal in the Produce Exchange is based on good faith.

A public office is a public trust, based on good faith.

With what political party has Candidate Ashley ever kept faith?

Look at his record as published in as strong a republican organ as the Blade, and it will be found one prolonged scramble for office in every party and on every side issue that afforded him a chance for an office during the last 30 years.

Trickery and treachery have punctuated his every political action.

He is a man without an iota of political principle, and it is "Anything, O Lord; anything," to get there with him.

Are the business men—the level-headed, practical business men—of Toledo prepared to send this demagogue of the deepest and darkest dye to congress? We think not?

ASHLEY OPPOSED TO UNIONISM.

The resignation of Mr. Reynold Voit from the republican executive committee is significant, and the causes leading thereto are interesting.

Mr. Ashley is the enemy of labor. This the Bee has stated repeatedly. On his railroad unionism is tabooed. Many, however, were unwilling to believe this until a final test was made.

Mr. Voit is treasurer of the Central Labor union. His attention was called to the fact that Mr. Ashley and the republican county central, the executive and the campaign committees were patronizing non-union labor in havin letter paper, political documents, tickets, etc., printed at a non-union shop. Mr. Voit proceeded to investigate and found the facts as stated.

He was one of a committee of labor unionists to get up a petition requesting Mr. Ashley to cease patronizing non-union labor. Mr. Ashley not only refused to sign the petition, but he absolutely objected to any interference on the part of organized labor.

The committees also refused to comply with the request, and Mr. Voit, true to his principles, promptly resigned.

It did not require this test to prove that Mr. Ashley was the enemy of organized labor.

The terrible and iniquitous blacklisting system on the Toledo & Ann Arbor road established the fact long since.

There is a plain duty before workingmen in this campaign. It is to down once and forever the arch enemy of organized labor, Ashley.

CALEB MASON, ALIAS J. M. ASHLEY.

The organ on the corner, in attempting to belittle its former editor and proprietor, Mr. Clark Waggoner, does not help Mr. Ashley's case.

The evidence of Mr. Waggoner is corroborated by no less an authority than the late Mr. D. R. Locke (Nasby), whose pungent pen literally flayed in his story, "The Demagogue," the political flopper and demagogue whom the organ is now supporting for congress.

In Caleb Mason, Mr. Locke depicts the worst class of the political parasite. Here is a synopsis of the character as sketched by Nasby, with comparisons by Mr. Waggoner:

He was in early life a printer, a newspaper reporter, a law student—so was Ashley. Mason was a "know nothing" in politics—so was Ashley. Mason saw a strong anti-slavery party (the republican) rising and joined it—so did Ashley. Mason was a republican candidate for congress in 1860—so was Ashley. In Mason's district was the county of Defiance—so there was in Ashley's. Mason had a battle with a democrat at "Hicks," in that county—as Ashley did at Hicksville, same county. Mason was elected to congress and wrote very peculiar "strictly confidential" letters, and sent farm seeds to constituents—so did Ashley. Mason had the radical anti-slavery element as the "rank and file" of his organization, with government officers as "captains and sergeants"—so did Ashley.

In 1862 there were two candidates against Mason, an independent republican ("Stephens",) and a democrat, ("Phelps.") So there were two against Ashley—Waite, republican, and Phelps, democrat. The district was strongly republican, and Mason secured his election by holding out special inducements for the democrats to stand by the candidate Phelps. In Mason's district were the counties of "Williams, Defiance, Henry and Putnam." So there were in Ashley's district. Just before the election Mason sent special agents to Bryan, Defiance, Napoleon and Ottawa (the four county seats), to remind democrats there that "the republicans were divided between Stephens and himself, and that if the democracy pulled together there was no doubt of the election of Phelps (democrat). Ashley did the same thing, just before the election of 1862. The election was held on Tuesday in both cases. As the result of such management by Mason, he was elected. So was Ashley by like means.

In 1864, Maon's opponent was "Col. Price," a wounded soldier, at home, and suffering from loss of a limb. Ashley's opponent was Col. A. V. Rice, who was at home from loss of a leg at Vicksburg. At the session of the legislature preceding the election in the story, an act was passed authorizing Ohio soldiers in the field to vote. Such was the fact at that time in Ohio. The story tells of a "Gen. Stillman," a democratic army officer, who came home from Lavergne, Tenn., to help Col. Price and who left before the election in October for Lavergne, declaring that he "would see that every soldier in the field voted for Price," most of the Ohio soldiers then being at Lavergne. Gen. J. B. Steedman undertook the same thing for Col. Rice. "Gen. Stillman," through the special influence of Mason at Washington, was stopped at Louisville, Ky., thus preventing the communication with the soldiers necessary to inform them of Price's candidacy. So was Gen. Steedman prevented from reaching Lavergne before the election, the soldiers largely voting for Ashley, without knowing that there was another candidate. The result of the district, as given in the story, and as it was in fact, stood as follows:

	In Story.	In Fact
Home vote—Mason, (Ashley)...	....	....
Price, (Rice).....	800	930
Soldiers' vote—Mason, (Ashley).	1,800	1,634
Price, (Rice).....	....	....
Mason's (Ashley's) majority..	1,000	704

The main opposition to Mason among republicans existed where he was best known. So was it with Ashley, and especially in Lucas county, where he resided.

The parallel might be followed indefinitely, but this will suffice. In view of the showing thus made, it would be preposterous to suppose that Mr. Locke's story of Mason's political career was the mere fiction of a brain, without aid of known facts as to any existing case; and having knowledge of Mr. Ashley's case, a writer would not be likely to use them, as in this instance, unless he intended to apply them to the party concerned.

The organ cannot defend its position in the face of such facts.

Will Ashley, the demagogue, be given another opportunity of "feathering his own nest" at the public expense?

ASHLEY'S BLUFF.

How the Betting Is Going In Toledo.

A Prominent New Yorker Offers $1,000 to $750 on Cleveland—Small Bets Picked Up.

There has been considerable small betting in Toledo to-day and yesterday on the election.

Mr. M. L. Strauss, representing a New York syndicate, has $10,000 to $7,500 to bet on Cleveland. Yesterday his instructions were to bet $1,000 to $900. This is better than is being given in New York.

Jim Ashley's bet on the board at Hanner's has caused considerable amusement.

There is nothing small about Jim. He will not bet less than $3,000. His bet, which is as follows, practically concedes defeat.

It is $1,000 that Ashley will have 1,500, and $1,000 that he will have 500, and $1,000 that he will be elected.

All or none must be taken. Who in Toledo has $3,000 to put up on the congressional race? No one, and Jim, who it is alleged, posted the bet, knows it.

It is simply a big bluff, but it won't work. Let him come down to the hundreds, and he will get all the bets he desires on all three.

Considerable money will change hands on 'Change. Even bets are rapidly picked up, and odds are given on Cleveland carrying New York.

DEMOCRATS, ATTENTION.

To the Democrats of Toledo and Lucas County:

The heavy registration points to a decisive democratic victory in this county and district next Tuesday.

It is, however, an imperative necessity that the democratic executive committee be placed in position to reap the harvest now ripe.

We must get out the vote on election day, and to do this, it will be necessary that every democrat take a personal interest in the battle of the ballots next Tuesday.

We have no Carnegies, or Ashley's barrel, nor wealthy protected barons to aid us financially and we must depend solely and wholly on the zeal and ardor of the people.

We cannot expect many to devote their services to the cause next Tuesday, but there is something that all can do.

There is no democrat in Toledo who cannot donate $2 to the cause.

We desire two things: First—Volunteers to help get out the vote in every precinct on Tuesday next. Second—Those who cannot give us their personal services can give $2 so that we can employ men in their places.

We need financial help and if we would win, must have it promptly.

Send your name for your $2, therefore, to the treasurer, Mr. Jacob Mandler, 430 Superior street, or to M. M. Eppstein, vice chairman of the democratic executive committee, at democratic headquarters, Summit street.

VOIT RESIGNS.

Ashley, the Arch-Enemy of Organized Labor,

Refuses to Patronize Union Labor or Products.

The Revolt in the Republican Executive Committee Grows Daily and It Is Spreading.

The revolt in the republican camp is growing beautifully wider each day, and it looks as if before the close of the campaign but few of the committee will be left to transact business at headquarters.

Mr. Reynold Voit, one of the hardest workers in the executive committee, has resigned and his resignation will be followed by others for the same causes which Mr. Voit threw up his thankless job.

Mr. Voit's attention was called to the fact that not only was Mr. Ashley patronizing non-union labor in having his stationery printed in non-union shops, but that the executive, campaign and county central committees have been doing the same thing.

The Typographical union has been for over a year fighting a well-known non-union shop, and of all the shops in the city this was the one selected by Mr. Ashley at which to have his printing done.

The Central Labor union, it appears, took prompt action and called upon Mr. Voit, who is treasurer of the union, to have Mr. Ashley and the committees have their stationery printed by union men in union shops.

A committee, of which Mr. Voit was chairman, was appointed and a petition was circulated requesting Mr. Ashley and other republican nominees to cease patronizing non-union labor.

When called upon Mr. Ashley bluntly refused to sign the petition, and said he would not be dictated to by labor organizations.

Finding his efforts futile, Mr. Voit promptly resigned from the executive committee.

The Bee has repeatedly stated that Mr. Ashley is not a friend of union labor. The boycott or blacklisting system on men employed by the Toledo & Ann Arbor road illustrates this fact.

It is understood that several other members of the committee are prepared to hand in their resignations at the first meeting.

THE CROWNING INFAMY.

The people of most of the states of the union, startled and alarmed by the prevalence of bribery and intimidation which have corrupted the very fountain head of our national sovereignty, have enacted what is known as the Australian ballot law, providing that no person not an officer of elections shall approach within a certain distance of the place where an election is being held, and that booths shall be provided where each voter shall go alone to mark a ballot furnished him by the judges of elections, which ballot is to be folded by the voter so that no human being shall be able to know for whom it is cast without a violation of the law, subjecting the offender to heavy penalties.

It has been apparent for a long time that the leaders of the republican party have been restive under this most wholesome law which was intended to make the business in "blocks of five" and "floaters" a thing of the past, but now the attorney general proposes at one stroke to destroy all the provisions of the secret ballot.

And, strange to say, he does this not under any direction of President Harrison, who would doubtless shrink from such a bold attempt to secure his own re-election, but under a note of President Cleveland requesting his attorney general "to take general charge and direction of the execution of the statutes of the United States touching the appointment of supervisors of elections and special deputy marshals and the performance of their duties and their compensation so far as these subjects are by the constitution and laws under the supervision and control of the executive branch of the government."

The attorney general of the United States (think of it!) claims that this request of Cleveland to his attorney general is such a transfer of the executive authority of the president as authorizes him to assume the functions of the president and take full control of this most important subject.

Under this assumed authority he proceeds to give instructions which, if carried out, will destroy the secrecy of the ballot. He instructs the United States supervisors that they have a right "to take, occupy and remain in such position from time to time, whether before or behind the ballot boxes as will in their judgment best enable them to see each person offering to vote," and as will best conduce to their scrutinizing the manner in which the voting is being conducted, "in other words, before the ballot boxes to watch the voter entering: behind the ballot box to watch him mark his ticket," and then authorizes and directs the deputy marshals to arrest any person these spies upon the voter may direct with or without process.

To understand the full infamy of the instructions of this alleged agent of Cleveland and this officer of the law we have only to remember that the notorious Davenport, the most unblushing corruptionist of the suffrage in the country, is chief supervisor of elections in the great state of New York, and the most unscrupulous partisans in New York, with Dan Martin and his gang of pluguglies from Philadelphia, as are his deputies, and these monstrous instructions are given in the face of the decision of Judge Brewer, a republican judge of the supreme court of the United States, that government marshals have no business about the voters' booths, the only decision of a United States court under the Australian ballot law.

To show that this is a deliberate attempt to destroy the Australian law for the protection of the ballot the marshal of New York, of course under instructions from Washington, has instructed his deputies to disregard the state laws and the decision of Judge Brewer and to go whenever they please before or behind the ballot boxes and arrest whoever they may see fit, promising them exemption from arrest whatever they may do.

It is bad enough for the secretary of the United States treasury to go about treating the use of money in elections as sound party morals. It is bad enough for the chairman of the republican committee of the state of New York to be sending out instructions to those "who can keep a secret" to inform him who can be bribed. It is bad enough to collect with unblushing effrontery the most enormous corruption funds ever heard of, to be placed in the hands of the most unscrupulous men in the party, to be used avowedly on the eve of elections for the only possible purpose of bribing voters, especially when the indicted murderer Frick rounds up a corruption funds in the region of Pittsburg alone equal to the annual revenue of half a dozen states, with a contribution of an even quarter of a million, but this attempt to send the creatures of Davenport and his ilk "behind the ballot boxes" to see if the bribed voter complies with his guilty contract is a crowning outrage which should consign its authors, aiders and abettors to eternal infamy.

Stevenson's Sound Doctrine.

Adlai seems to be perfectly sound on the financial goose. VOTE IT STRAIGHT.

The above is a fac-simile of the democratic ticket which all democrats and hundreds of good republicans will vote Tuesday next.

Vote it straight. Every man on it is worthy of your support. Some republican neighbor, however, who will not feel like voting the straigrt ticket, but who has a favorite on the democratic ticket, may ask you how he shall mark his ticket. Tell him to simply place a cross in the ring at the top of the democratic ticket, and one in front of the name for which he desires to record his vote.

To democrats only one word is necessary. Vote it straight. Mark an X in the ring over the democratic ticket, and wishing it good speed, let 'er go.

CLUBS AND SOCIETIES.

Monthly Business Meeting of the Union of Unions.

Excellent Papers Read Before the Catholic Club—The Political Equality Club's Reception.

The November meeting of the Union of Unions was held Thursday afternoon at the Washington Street Congregational church, with Henrietta L. Monroe union.

The president of this union called the meeting to order and read the scripture lesson, and the opening prayer was made by Mrs. Stevens, after which the congregation sang "Bringing in the Sheaves," Mrs. Stevens presided at the organ.

Mrs. Louise Eck, president of the Union of Unions, then took the chair, and Mrs. Southland was elected secretary pro tem.

After reading the minutes of the previous meeting, Mrs. Sumner gave a verbal report of the work of the Piqua convention.

Miss Fredericks then made a short address on temperance work among foreigners, and requested each union to appoint a superintendent to attend to this branch of the work.

There will be another temperance mass meeting held at the Canton avenue German Lutheran church shortly, and a committee was appointed to prepare a program. They will meet with Mrs. Eck next Wednesday at 3 p. m.

The matter of looking after bill-boards, to see that no indecent pictures are posted, was discussed, and a committee of ladies will attend to this work.

It was also decided to keep open house at the city missions on New Year's day.

Miss Brown spoke of the importance of each union appointing a superintendent of juvenile work.

The police matron committee gave an encouraging report on improvements at the station, and were discharged and a new committee to visit the station during the month of December appointed.

Mrs. Sumner reported that Swanton union has raised the $15 subscribed by them for the temple, and desired the names of their deceased members recorded in the temple.

This was put to a vote, and adopted.

After a general discussion, the meeting adjourned to meet the first Thursday in December with Air Line union.

Catholic Club Meeting.

The Catholic club met in Friendship hall last evening, with the usual good attendance.

The exercises were opened with an excellent original paper, by Mr. Boyle, followed by a short intermission, after which Miss Anna Petit rendered a chaming vocal solo, Miss Goulet, accompanist.

Dr. Monroe then read a splendid historical paper, describing the last days of Columbus' voyage.

The paper was greatly enjoyed and at its conclusion the meeting adjourned.

The New Century club will meet this evening with Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Tillinghast, 121 Eleventh street.

To-morrow (Saturday) afternoon at 4 o'clock the first annual meeting of the Political Equality club will be held at the home of the president, Mrs. Claude Q. Murphy, where a reception will be given for the members and friends of the club. They are all cordially invited to be present.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

A HORRIBLE TALE

Embodying a Few Hints to the Blade's Picturesque Writers.

The Mad Flight of Distoned, Untrained Fancy Hits the Public With the Usual Dull, Sickening Thud.

The Blade made a mess of it yesterday. It almost killed James Goggins in its efforts to write what is known in the vernacular of the half-starved penny-a-liner, "writing against space," as a picturesque article. Writing a newspaper item in the cheap style of a yellow colored novel may be all right for some people. It hits the Bee's elevator boy as being just the thing. It has the delicious flavor of his favorite works, viz: "Deadwood Dick," "Frank Read and His Flying Machine," "The Mystery of Dead Man's Gulch," "One-Eyed Dick, the Double-Dyed Villain of Wild-Cat Chute, or the Dungeon in the Top of the Tower," and other tales that hold the messenger boy rooted to the spot.

The Blade's descriptive writer says:

"Presently a sharp pain shot through him. He did not notice it much. Then came another and another, darting through his body, cutting at his nervous system, like some keen-edged instrument. It subsided after a short time and settled into a steady pain. One in the right inguinal region and another in the right shoulder."

Very good, indeed, but why not elaborate on it a little as follows. One can not get too much of a good thing:

"After a short period of time, that seemed centuries, had elapsed, the wounded man, who lay on the edge of a great eternity, momentarily awaiting the clammy touch of that dread reaper of a human harvest, felt darting through the intricities of his very soul, the relentless dart of excruciating pain as if some distorted fiend of hell had bound him in his horrible arms, that tightened with merciless grasp, until his bones creaked, his flesh moaned and his very life spark seemed to struggle in its argillaceous shell in mad effort to seek that freedom from its tortures that lay beyond the valley of the shadows—horrible, most horrible!! "etc., etc.—This style crown, 8-vo., cloth, with index, 9 cents a yard.

Hereunto appended is another passage from the Blade:

"He is worse. His face bears a whiter hue to-day than it has since he fell before the pistol, with two bullets imbedded in his body. He complained for the first time, of any pain. His big, healthy body thwarted the vicious purpose of the balls. They did not pain him yesterday. To-day they do. He has felt, for the first time, the sting of the crazed and revengeful husband. It has dawned upon him, for the first time, that his life is not as sure as he would have it."

Revised and elaborated edition—

"Ha, ha!" rang the maniacal laugh of the fiend on the chill morning air. "He is worse, and mine, all mine, ha-ha-ha-ha," The dying man's face turns the hue of the virgin glacier of the Alpine heights; in his eyes is the dim far away look of one who was gazing on another world. Through his little window came the ceaseless hum of the busy town below, the rush of numberless feet, the confused rushing of the carriages over the rough pavements and the thousand and one sounds that go to make up the never-ending whirr of a great city. It all sounded sweet to him—he who was soon to leave it all behind. For the first time he felt the sting of the crazed and revengeful husband boring at his inguinal region, and it dawned upon him at last that his acts had purchased him a continuous limited one way ticket to the everlasting fair grounds, with no return slip attached. The fiend sat watching his dying gasps from the footboard of his bed, rubbing his claw-like hands together in devilish anticipation, etc., etc., etc."—this style, illus., 12mo., morrocco, 2 cents a running foot.

The Bee has its descriptive writers, but it keeps them chained in the hatches in the cellar for fear some of their terrible work might creep into print—if they get loose. They are fed three times a day on plain but substantial food, and although it seems cruel to thus confine them it is best for the public and best for all concerned, and then too, some day the Bee may want to start a dime novel factory and they will be handy.

TO LEAVE TOLEDO.

Important Changes in the Southwest Despatch Line.

The Lake Shore and the New York & New England Roads Admitted to Full Membership.

Some important changes in the Southwest Despatch Line took place to-day. Mr. W. F. Alport, who has heretofore been manager in this city, with offices in the St. Clair building, has been made accountant, and W. F. Wilson, formerly agent of the Hoosic Tunnel Line at St. Paul, comes to Toledo as general manager. His office will temporarily be located in this city, but in a few months the office will be transferred to Buffalo.

These are not the only changes. It is also announced that the Lake Shore railroad and the New York & New England road have been admitted the full membership of the line. This means a good deal.

The combination as it formerly stood consisted of the Clover Leaf, the N. Y. C. & S. L., the West Shore and the Fitchburg. The new combination will be a strong one, the Lake Shore bringing freight from the northwest and the Clover Leaf from the southwest; with the Lake Shore an excellent connection is made with the east and the New York & New England road will enable the line to reach a great milling territory.

LOWER SUMMIT STREET PARK

How Governor Ashley Is Helping the Plan Along.

To the Editor: A recent letter in the Commercial from Gov. Ashley, with reference to the Riverview park question ought not to pass unanswered.

About a year ago, whilst the writer was on his way to the court house, one morning, he met Gov. Ashley on Superior street, near the corner of Adams. The governor stopped him and said he was glad that the park question was to be submitted to the vote of the citizens of Toledo; that he was heartily in accord with the measure and would do what he could to carry it to a successful issue. He hoped if it carried, that the park board would include in its park system a river front park between Ash street and the old Manhattan mills. The writer thinks he said that he thought seriously of improving and making the Hough place his future home, and if the park board wanted the river property, neither he nor his people would oppose it, and the city could have it (except a double track right of way for his railroad), at what it cost with interest at 6 per cent.

The conditions may have changed somewhat in the past year, but the park board do not understand that there is any real difference between Gov. Ashley, the Ann Arbor railroad and the park board, except the price to be paid for the property in question. The board does not feel that the city should pay the price asked for the land, and hence are seeking to condemn it, allowing a jury to fix the compensation.

The suit begun by the Ann Arbor railroad to enjoin the city from appropriating the property, if successful, would compel the board to either pay the price asked for the property, abandon the river park project altogether, or stop where we are and the board do the best it can with what property it has already acquired.

The system of parks adopted by the board embraces an uninterrupted river view and frontage of nearly three-fifths of a mile, extending from Ash street to the old Manhattan mills, with sufficient area to easily accommodate upwards of 100,000 people. To sever it as proposed to be done by the pending suit against the city, will be practically to destroy it.

Is That So.

This Is Different.

Toledo's registration is 18,827, an increase of 2,429 over last year. It exceeds Dayton 1,472. The census of 1890 gave Toledo a population of over 80,000, Dayton over 58,000. Annexation last spring added about 3,000 population to Dayton. —Dayton Journal.

A Letter for "The Mare."

A Word as to Judge Scribner.

For circuit judge, Charles H. Scribner, the present incumbent on the bench, is by all odds the candidate for the people of this county to support. He is a judicial officer far beyond the reach of partisan or partial bias, learned in the law and fully capable for any higher judicial station to which he might be called. Do not fail to vote for him next Tuesday.—Sandusky Journal.

An Ideal Candidate.

Preston C. Hudson for common pleas judge is an ideal candidate for such an office. He possesses rare ability and learning, is an earnest sympathizer with the common people and his court would be a refuge of right and justice for all the wronged and oppressed. Give him your vote next Tuesday without fail, for the bench needs such men to keep it pure and beyond the reach of the influence of mere wealth and station.—Sandusky Journal.

Sketch of Wickham.

Common Pettifegger Wickham's emissaries have been doing all in their power to save that hungry politician from an inglorious defeat; but all to no avail. The many opponents of that perpetual candidate are terribly in earnest, and he is at last fully convinced of that fact. With longing and lingering glances he has watched the last morsel of spoon victuals fade away from his vision, and his optics are set. Candidate Wickham's political prospects have reached the point just beyond the borders of consolation, where all that is lacking is a copper on each eye and a bandage for his chin. These will be forthcoming November 8, when the army of republican voters marches to the polls and places X marks in front of the name of that upright and able jurist, Hon. C. H. Scribner.—Bellevue News.

The Toledo Press Club.

The regular monthly meeting of the Toledo Press club was held yesterday afternoon with an excellent attendance of members. Mr. P. C. Boyle, member of the national advisory board, submitted a report of the meeting recently held in Chicago. Col. Caughling and George W. Stevens were appointed to confer with the O. Y. C. as to headquarters. Several matters of importance to the members were discussed and acted upon. The following standing committees were announced by the president, Mr. M. P. Murphy: Membership, S. W. Bolles, Arthur Campbell, C. G. Wilkinson; house, Charles Caughling, Harry J. Howard, Miss Maud Wood; program, George W. Stevens, Blaeque Wilson, J. R. W. Cooper; finance, William Beatty, Charles Caughling, F. J. Oblinger.

CITY COMMITTEES.

The Engineer Has Been Quite Busy Lately.

Errors in Street Improvement Ordinances — Street Railroads and Asphalt—The Double Tracking of Dorr Street

Last night the street committee disposed of a large batch of business. It first approved a resolution for the grading of Fifteenth street from Monroe to Jefferson.

A communication was then read from the city solicitor advising that the resolution for grading State street, from Canton avenue to Union street be repealed, because the assessment cannot be collected. It was explained that the ordinance did not set out the property to be assessed, as required by law; that there were some 30 streets on which the legislation was similarly defective, and that care should be taken not to proceed with improvements till proper legislation was had. The matter was referred to the engineer to take proper action.

Explanation was also made of the trouble in opening and widening Forrer street, from Union to Holly. It was thought at first that the damage would be only about $300, and that nobody would oppose for so small an amount; but a survey showed that the widening would take in parts of five houses, and as the statute compels payment for the entire house, it would cost thousands of dollars, and would come on the general fund. A case had just been entered, and the solicitor recommended its dismissal, the passage of a new ordinance and a fresh beginning. A resolution to that effect was prepared, and the matter referred to the engineer. A new form of ordinance has been printed to include description of property to be assessed for improvements, so that there need be no trouble in future on that account.

A resolution to pave Ontario street from Bush to Buckeye, 36 feet, with asphalt and to rescind a former resolution for 30 feet, caused considerable discussion. The clerk stated that the change was necessitated by a pending ordinance to permit a double street railway track. Walker began the trouble by speaking of asphalt paving in Cleveland being torn up through the presence of car tracks, and never being so good again. It was stated that Detroit paved to the rail; but the rails there were different. The street car men suggested paving between the rails, and just outside, with different material, as done elsewhere, holding that with the running of electric cars the center was not used so much. Paving men argued that with heavy rails there need be no trouble with asphalt. The matter was laid over for a week.

The street commissioner was ordered to take up the plank sidewalk on South street between the canal and Park street and fill with cinders.

The bid of C. W. McKenna for paving Erie street from Logan street to North Railroad avenue with vitrified brick, was accepted at his figures of $7,796.21.

Street commissioner's bills to the amount of $376.31 were passed.

Ordinances were approved to improve Colborne avenue from Collingwood to Lawrence avenue; to make water and sewer connections on Wisconsin street; to grade Walbridge avenue, from Hawley street to Hiett avenue; Utica street from Lagrange to Elm; Whitley street from the railroad to Seaman street; Greenwood avenue from Boose avenue to the belt line; Spring street from Gribbin to Poplar; Second street from Clark street to the Bromwell addition; Colborne street from Broadway to the canal; Warren street from Bancroft to Delaware avenue; to pave alleys between Summit and St. Clair street from Monroe to Perry, and Adams to Madison; Twenty-second street from Monroe to Woodruff avenue 26 feet wide; Missouri street from Washington to Division, 22 feet wide, and from Division street to a point 90 feet east of Collingwood avenue 26 feet wide, and Washington street from Collingwood avenue to Lawrence avenue.

An ordinance to pave Twenty-second street, 34 feet wide, from Washington to Bartlett street was laid over, the notices not having all been served, and one for improving Webster street from Collingwood avenue to Cherry street was referred to the solicitor, the name of part of the street, from Collingwood avenue to Fulton street having been changed to Kenilworth.

The engineer was instructed to pave Putnam street at alley intersections to the line of the sidewalk.

Committee on Sewers.

R. F. Russell made a kick before the sewer committee against the 350 feet of 24-inch brick sewer contracted for in the alley between Buffalo and Ash streets as too costly, declaring that 15-inch pipe would do. A lively discussion ended in confirmation of the contract; then the committee approved a resolution for a two-foot brick sewer on Michigan street between Magnolia street and Stickney avenue.

The Printing Committee.

Bids for the city printing again engaged the attention of the proper committee, and after a good deal of discussion on bills and rates, reference was made to a committee composed of Messrs. Hartford, Schmidt and Taylor, to report at a session of the committee to be called by the chairman.

Committee on Railroads.

Before the committee on railroads appeared Mr. Lang, of the Consolidated, with an ordinance for permission to lay a double track on Dorr street under a 25-year franchise. Mr. Lee thought the franchise should expire at the same time as that now enjoyed on the street, making six years less. Mr. Lang insisted that it would not pay his company to [illegible]

GOSSIP FROM THE OUTSIDE PRESS.

A False Prophet.

In an interview with a United Press reporter Senator Hiscock says he thinks the plurality for Harrison and Reid in the state will be even larger than that polled for the national republican ticket in 1888. One year ago this time Senator Hiscock was predicting Fassett's election.—Rochester Herald.

A Few Stubborn Facts.

Facts are stubborn things. The McKinley tariff has raised no man's wages. It has increased every man's expenses. It continues to increase the cost of living. It robs the people and gives their money to certain favored manufacturers and the manufacturers have paid and are willing to pay millions of dollars to keep up the policy of fraud and extortion the bill represents. How foolish is that voter who votes for a continuance of this tariff tax!—Millinburg Times.

Not a Cloud in the Democratic Horizon.

From all parts of the country come announcements of the abandonment by prominent men of the republican party and their affiliation with the democracy. On the other hand we hear of few accessions to the republican ranks. The high tariff is doing its work effectively among the solid voters of the country, and those who are in a position to scan the political horizon, see little that is not encouraging to the democracy.—New York News.

Matthew's "Statement."

If the republican committee can extract any comfort from Senator Quay's "statement," they must be easily pleased. To have their work called "faultless" by this notorious corruptionist is enough to blacken the record in the eyes of every honest man, but when he announces his "belief" that Harrison will carry New York, Indiana and Connecticut, every intelligent observer of political affairs knows that it is simply a reckless and cynical gambler's bluff. Mr. Quay believes nothing of the sort. He knows better.—N. Y. World.

All is Well.

Good news comes to us from every quarter. From Oregon to Maine; from sea to sea the Cleveland tide is rolling and swelling.

There is no stopping it. It grows stronger every day and sweeps obstacles before it like chaff before a flood.

All is well.

The people of the United States by an immense majority are in favor of the election of Cleveland and Stevenson and so they will vote next Tuesday.

The country is tired of the McKinley tariff and will not tolerate the force bill.

All is well.—Atlanta Journal.

ST. MARYS.

Dan McVay Was the Man Killed at St. Henry.

He Resisted and Fired at the Officer and Was Shot Through the Head.

St. Marys, O., Nov. 4.—(Special)—The supposed horse thief who was killed near St. Henry, by Marshal Drees, of Minister, Monday night, turns out to have been Dan McVay, whose home is near De Graff, Logan county. He was camping near the above village with his wife and three children, when the officers apprised them, and when he was told to consider himself under arrest, he made a desperate resistance. Drees finally managed to put the irons on one of his hands, when he drew a revolver with the other and fired at him, the bullet, however, going wide of its mark. Drees then leveled his revolver at the fugitive's head and fired, the shot taking effect, causing death instantly. After the shooting Drees bave himself up and was bound over to court in the sum of $3,000.

There was a large meeting of the Dunkards at Philipsburg, Darke county, yesterday. The Dunkards board themselves, one of their main edibles being soup, which is made in large kettles and on this occasion was partaken of by the hundreds present. Some miscreant purposely seasoned it with croton oil, and its bad effects succeeded in breaking up the meeting for the time being. No fatalities are reported.

The democrats and the people's party of Mercer county are in a squabble in three townships. The democrats are trying to freeze the people's party men out and have filled places that should have been left open for the people's party men. It is reported from Liberty township that there is liable to be considerable trouble arise from this. The people's party swear vengeance and say they will stand by their rights. An interesting time is expected.

Diphtheria continues to spread in the village of Chickasaw, and 15 new cases are reported since Monday, with two deaths, making 45 cases in all now and seven deaths. Consternation exists in that community.

The general store of S. C. Davis at Neptune, Mercer county, was burglarized last night, and over $300 worth of goods stolen.

SULLIVAN THIS EVENING

Coming Attractions in the Association Course.

Gus Hill's New York Stars All Next Week — Emerson Concert This Evening.

This evening J. P. Sullivan will appear at Wheeler's in a genuine Irish play. It is not only an Irish play in name—Leaves of Shamrock—but in every other sense as well, for the company has just returned from a tour of Ireland, having made a big hit. Of the production the Dublin Irish Times says:

"Last night Mr. J. P. Sullivan and his company appeared in the Queen's theater in Leaves of Shamrock. Mr. Sullivan presented the same piece not long ago in Dublin, when it was favorably received. There was a large attendance, and the play went most satisfactorily, the audience being loud in their expressions in appreciation as the action went on. It is unnecessary to recall the incidents of the Leaves of Shamrock. It is an Irish play full of exciting 'situations,' and with plenty of humor. Mr. J. P. Sullivan appeared in the part of Carroll Daly, a genuine Irish character, which he invested with great interest. Mr. Sullivan sang two or three capital songs, and his acting throughout was all that could be desired. The stage and scenic effects were excellent." The support is a strong one and Toledoans will be pleased to learn that Tony Sullivan, an old favorite here, is in the cast. He will be warmly welcomed by Toledoans who recollected him along in '74 and '75. He was always a clever artist and has been improving every day.

Variety Next Week.

Variety will be the attraction at the People's all next week, and as Gus Hill's New York Stars will dispense it, there will be packed houses. The company is made up of some 20 specialty people of note. Emerson and Cook are recognized as versatile comedians and fun-makers; Swift and Chase will be remembered as musical artists of rare skill; John E. Drew, Dixon and Lang, Miss Maude Beverly, Prince Satsuma, Patterson brothers, McAvoy and May, and Fred J. Huber's funny comedy entitled "A Hot Pickle," assist in presenting what may be termed a high class variety entertainment.

A Series of Treats.

The events in the Star course have been given in the Bee heretofore, but there is still another course to be conducted by the Y. M. C. A., to be known as the Association course. It is intended especially for the members of the association who will be admitted free. Course tickets will be sold at a very reasonable price to outsiders. The attractions will be as follows:

Wednesday, December 7, the Schubert Male quartette, of Chicago, (the favorite quartet that closed the Star course two years ago), consisting of Samuel T. Battle, first tenor; Wm. Harris, second tenor; John R. Tyley, first bass; George H. Iott, second bass; supported by Bertha L. Clark, violinist; Laura B. MacCorkle, reader and whistler; Evelyn M. Ellis, accompanist.

Wednesday, December 15, Dr. L. B. Sperry, in his magnificently illustrated lecture on "Alaska." Dr. Sperry is no doubt as brilliant a lecturer as will appear in Toledo this winter.

Tuesday, January 13, the Remenyi Concert company, headed by the world-renowned violinist, Edouard Remenyi, assisted by M'lle Florence Sage, solo pianist and accompanist; Miss Minnie Methot, soprano; Jas. W. Marshbank, baritone.

Wednesday, March 15, the Detroit Philharmonic club, assisted by the Mehan Lady quartet, of Detroit, consisting of Miss Nellie A. Goodwin, Miss Jessie Corlette, sopranos; Mrs. J. D. Mehan and Mrs. B. S. Younghusband, contraltos. The members of the Detroit Philharmonic club are individually and collectively artists: Wm. Yunck, first violin; L. F. Schultz, second violin; Walter Voigtlander, viola; Alfred Hoffmann, violoncello.

This Evening's Concert.

This evening the Walter Emerson Concert company will appear at Memorial hall under the auspices of the Cycling club. The company consists of Walter Emerson, cornet soloist; Edith Louis Smith, reader; Edwin M. Shonert, pianist; Harrita Cheney, soprano, and Florence Cook, violinist.

Robert Downing.

Canada has just added her voice to that of her sister cities on this side of the national boundary in proclaiming Robert Downing the greatest heroic tragedian of the time. Mr. Downing went to Toronto an unknown star, and played the banner week of the season, besides securing the most complete critical indorsement from the press of the city. Mr Downing will be seen at the Wheeler opera house Thursday and Friday nights, November 10 and 11, in grand scenic productions of Othello and The Gladiator.

He was first billed to play Virginius on Thursday night, but by urgent request Othello has been substituted. Clarence L. Dean, a former Detroit newspaper man, is acting as business manager fro Mr. Downing. He is in the city to-day preparing for his appearance.

OHIO NEWSPAPER COMMENT.

Honest Men Say So.

No honest man will condemn a fellowman, be he president or pension commissioner, for vetoing a dishonest application for an undeserving pension.—Lima Times.

It Will Be a Sausage.

Wanamaker got the postmaster generalship as a prize from Harrison after the campaign of 1888. Now Frick is angling for a booby prize for Andrew Carnegie.—Canton News-Democrat.

Naughty Washington.

An actress has at last been found who dresses and undresses on the stage in such abbreviated and non-descript costumes as to shock Washington society. She should be preserved in the National museum as a curiosity.—Dayton Press.

Democratic Logic.

When the American people are quiet they are thinking—they are never idle. Therefore while they have not been hurrahing and tramping along the streets, swinging torches, they are prepared to vote intelligently on Tuesday next.—Dayton Herald.

Not As Much.

A man may talk democracy 364 days in the year. He may join parades and split his throat in huzzas for his party; yet if he forgets or fails to vote on election day he is of no more use to his party than a knot on a log. Get out the vote. That is what counts.—Putnam County Sentinel.

This Far Workingmen.

Is there a workingman in the city of Newark who relishes the idea of voting for a ticket whose success depends upon a power that is hostile to labor? Men who hire Pinkerton's to coerce labor are not safe guardians of American liberty.—Newark Advocate.

They Know Him.

In direct contrast to Secretary Foster's statement that the republicans would carry every northern state with every possible exception of Nevada, we have the authority of a Fostoria democrat to say that he desires to wager $100 that Cleveland will carry Indiana, Harrison's own state.—Fostoria Times.

Their Old Tricks.

This is about the time in presidential years that old Mr. Roorback, an ardent republican, begins to spin his magnificent lies, and it is well for our democratic brethren to look out for roorbacks, bluff, bombast and tricks. Don't believe anything put in circulation by the enemy, but put your X in the circle, and Grover will go in on a canter.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ALLEN O. MYERS.

St. Marys, O., Nov. 4.—(Special)—The local campaign was opened in this city last night by Allen O. Myers, who addressed an enthusiastic gathering of democrats at City hall. A large pole was raised in the afternoon. To-night the republicans will make a demonstration.

Dr. Daniel Denison Slade is one of the few surviving eyewitnesses of the first capital operation under the influence of ether at the Massachusetts general hospital November 7, 1846, when the discovery of Dr. Morton stood the test which revolutionized surgery.

BIRTHDAYS.

I am content
To let the added years
That come to me
Roll back into the past so far
That memory
Can only find along the shore
Some perfect shells and nothing more.

I am content
That seaweed, bits of wreck
And pebbles gray,
Drift out of sight into the sea.
For them to stay
Would be to cherish grief and pain
I would not, must not, feel again.

I am content
That none of life
Can ever be
Lived o'er with self-same throb and thrill;
Nor move to me
Will former song, or book or toy
Fill the measure of my joy.

I am content
To live all of to-day;
And when I dream
Let fancy revel in the light
That hope had seen
Beyond the present, and afar,
A steadfast, sweetly beck'ning star.

I am content
For age upon the heart
Can never creep;
And when, at last, in stillest night,
I seem to sleep,
A birthday comes to me in truth:
The gift it brings—immortal youth.

CONDUCTOR FRANK.

As the 6 p. m. local train rushed past Willow street, Conductor Frank's heart gave a bound—in twenty minutes he would be free to go "home!" He whispered the word tenderly to himself; he had only been married one week.

Just seven days ago he had gone over the bay to San Francisco with pretty Agnes, and just when she should have been reciting her lessons to the good sisters at the convent she was promising to "love, honor and obey him." How she had enjoyed running away. They had not dared to ask her father's consent—he was one of the "first" doctors in Alameda.

A little home had been prepared—a cottage hidden away among rose bushes and honeysuckle vines, and a servant hired to do the work. It was absured to think of expecting Agnes to work; her hands were soft and dimple like a baby's. Her part of life should be to gather flowers, to curl her bangs—to be a "welcome home" for him.

Thus far she had fulfilled this destiny, and Conductor Frank was as happy as any human being could be. Hurrying home this evening he whistled merrily. He had a box of candy in his pocket—Agnes loved candy. When he came in sight of the gate that led into his paradise his steps quickened. Agnes was usually out on the steps waiting for him; this evening she was not there.

Conductor Frank ran into the cottage.

"She is hiding from me! I shall not look for her." he thought, and he suppressed a chuckle. He sat down in the parlor and began to whistle carelessly. After five minutes he opened the box of candy.

"There's no one to eat this candy. Guess I'll eat it myself," he said, in a loud voice. That would bring her.

When she didn't come, he put down the candy.

"The little witch! I suppose I must hunt for her," he cried out, happily. Into each closet, behind each door he looked—but he did not find her. He went into the kitchen; the "girl" was placidly reading out on the back steps.

"Where is your mistress?" he asked, quietly.

"Her father came to see her and she went out with him. She didn't give out any dinner, sir, so nothing's ready for you," she answered.

* * * * * * *

Gone out with her father! Of couse he was glad of that—it would make her happy if the old father forgave her. But he felt anxious; should he go after her?

He went into the sitting-room. On the table was a note which read as follows:

Dear Frank: Papa says our marriage is to be set aside because I am under age. He says if you try to see me he will have you arrested. Oh, Frank, for goodness sake don't try. I am wretched enough as it is. Your miserable AGGIE.

* * * * * * *

Conductor Frank rushed from the house and soon rang Dr. Harvey's doorbell. He was told that the family had gone east an hour before.

When he was once more in his late home he dismissed the servant, closed all the doors and sat down to battle with his great sorrow.

Agnes—his child-wife—was lost to him! His pretty home was deserted.

He did not blame her. He knew Dr. Harvey to be a man of iron will. Perhaps he had been wrong to steal his Agnes; but he had loved her so and she had been so willing to steal away with him. She was speaking to him in everything. There was the stack of novels she had enjoyed reading just because they had hitherto been among forbidden fruits There was her garden hat—he almost fancied her lovely face was peeping out from under it. He picked up one of the novels, a detective story. In the title page was written in big schoolgirl letters: "Mrs. Conductor Frank's book." She always called herself "Mrs. Conductor Frank." He went into the bedroom. Agnes had thrown her wrapper across the bed; the bedspread was rumpled. Perhaps she had rested there a moment before she left. He went to the bureau; she had a way of leaving the hair in the comb. That very morning he had jested with her about it. Perhaps there was some there now.

* * * * * * *

He gathered the tangled hair reverently, kissed it, and put it away. Then he snatched the wrapper and folding it close to his heart threw himself upon the bed and sobbed like a child.

One morning, three years later, Conductor Frank, now stationmaster at Auburn, Cal., was attending to his many duties.

There was the usual gathering of idlers around the station. Several nursegirls were congregated at the upper end, allowing their charges to look after themselves. The youngest of these children, a mere baby, grew tired of playing with the others, and wandered up the track. It was not missed until the morning train whistle blew—then the nurse shrieked with horror. All eyes were centered on the little one! Conductor Frank alone seemed to have his senses. He fled toward the child, reached it just in time! He lifted it from danger and threw it into a flower-lined ditch. Then, somehow, his foot slipped and he fell. He was taken to the station. A doctor was called, he pronounced the noble fellow to be dying. As he lay there a woman forced her way through the crowd.

"I must, I shall see this splendid man who saved my baby," she exclaimed to some one who was trying to keep her from the room. At the sound of her voice Conductor Frank opened his eyes.

The mother bent over the sufferer—their eyes met!

She knelt beside him, and forgetful of all else, put her arms around his neck.

"Can you hear me, Frank?" she sobbed, "can you understand what I want to tell?"

She whispered a few words in his ear, a look of intense joy came into the dying man's eyes, then she kissed him.

"He is dead," some one said a moment later. "Madam, your husband is asking for you at the door."—New Orleans Picayune.

NOT A CLIMATE FOR BOOMERANG THROWERS.

The Australian bushmen who were recently brought to San Francisco to show Americans the marvel of boomerang throwing are unable to stand "the glorious climate of California," and the Immigration Commissioner has decided to send them back. They refused to come ashore, and shivered all day on the deck of the steamer on which they arrived. One of them, who spoke English a little, said, "We shall be glad to go home. We would die here. It is too cold. The people are not like our people." "Don't you want to go ashore and see the city?" he was asked. The bushmen shook his head violently. "Why not?" "The houses are too high. We cannot see the sun." These innocent aborigines were persuaded to ship to this country by a showman who counted on making a fortune out of them. He failed to supply them with clothes or look after their comfort. Learning the story of the Queenlanders, the immigration commissioners refused to allow the showman to take them off the steamer.—San Francisco Chronicle.

COSTLY ELECTIONEERING.

A Fight for Parliamentary Honors Which Proved Expensive.

There was no chance of a poor man getting to parliament in the olden days. In the last century fortunes were sometimes staked upon a single combat. It is stated that the two great contests for Hampshire in 1790 and 1806 cost the ministerial candidates £25,000 apiece on each occasion, while their opponent's expenses were proportionately large. At the famous election in Northampton in 1768 the opponents were the earls of Halifax, Northampton and Spencer, and the candidates they pitted against each other were Sir George Osborne, Sir George Bridges Rodney and the Hon. Thomas Howe.

Of this contest Mr. Grego writes as follows in his "History of Parliamentary Elections:" "The candidates were of small account in the conflict; their patrons bore the brunt of the battle. The canvassing commenced long before the polling; this was extended over 14 days. * * * According to the poll book the legitimate number of electors, some 930, was exceeded by 288, but confusion of persons is accounted for by the promiscuous hospitalities of three noble mansions being at the mercy of the crowd for weeks. * * * During the six weeks the scrutiny lasted 60 covers were daily spread at Spencer house, St. James', for those concerned in the case. The results were no less eccentric; the number of votes being finally found equal, the election was referred to chance and decided by a toss, which Lord Spencer won and nominated a man out in India.

"The cost of this escapade then had to be counted. It is said Lord Spencer expended £100,000, and his antagonists are credited with having wasted £150,000 each. * * * Earl Spencer came off lightest, and appears to have been in no way involved; Lord Halifax was ruined; Lord Northampton cut down his trees, sold his furniture at Copton Winyates, went abroad for the rest of his days and died in Switzerland.—London Weekly Telegraph.

STORY OF A REVOLVER.

Singular Superstition Entertained By Murderers.

I was walking along the dock one afternoon when I ran into a tramp who was fumbling over a heap of rubbish in an ash barrel, says a New York Herald reporter.

He fished out an old revolver; barely had his hand touched the weapon than he threw the pistol to the ground. Turning to e he said:

"I would like to take that iron with me."

"Well, there it is."

"No, not for worlds."

"You are crazy."

"I am not. How do I know what may have been done with that revolver? Might it not have been used in some killing scrape? You know, it's a superstition among thieves and murderers to throw away their shooting irons. It is considered bad luck to hold 'em."

"Why so?"

"Oh, there's no telling. Now this revolver," he said, "might have taken a man's life for all I know. There are rust stains on the handle. See for yourself."

I looked closely. There were dull stains there. These might possibly have been caused by human blood. But only the microscope could determine that definitely now.

"Maybe the man who fell before this gun was robbed for his money; maybe he had a home and family; maybe it was some atrocious midnight surprise."

As the tramp said this he looked intently at the engine of death in a reflective fashion. Then, with a sudden movement, he threw it far out in the tide.

I thought no more of the incident.

Four months later my business took me to a small town in Connecticut.

"You are just in time," said a friend.

"How so?" I asked inquisitively.

"We're going to make a man swing for a bloody crime. Here is his picture in the paper."

I looked and stared with surprise.

It was the face of my tramp friend.

BRAINS AND BEAUTY.

They Are, Alas, Not Often Combined in One Woman.

One of the puzzling things difficult of solution in life is the persistency of divorce between brains and beauty. While it by no means follows that a homely woman is always brainy or a pretty one invariably devoid of intelligence, still it is true that of all women noted for powerful intellect few have been otherwise that hopelessly plain. Mme. De Stael, the intellectual prodigy of her day, before whose wit even the great Napoleon quailed, and of whom he said: "She has shafts which would hit a man if he were seated on a rainbow," was totally without feminine grace, save only the charm of a low melodious voice. One famous word portrait describes her as a "priestess of Apollo, with dary eyes illuminated by genius, and marked features expressive of a destiny superior to that of most women," which is of course, only an ornamental way of saying that she was not fair.

George Eliot's biographers seldom attempt a personal description, and shirk the issue by saying that she had "large, massive, homely features, which were at rare intervals softened by a smile of great beauty. Her head was colossal and masculine, her hair coarse, brown and bushy, her brow high and full, but her body was frail and delicate. And this powerful woman, whose writings have influenced all modern thought, was given over to the woman's weakness of shedding tears incessantly. It is hard to reconcile the fact with her other characteristics and it, like her second marriage, are things her admirers like to forget. Lady Mary Montague, she of the exquisite letters, was a most untidy and slovenly woman with a face hideously scarred by small-pox and distressingly homely. She said herself that the only reason she was glad she was a woman was because she would never have to marry one.

Margaret Fuller was quite the reverse of pretty, save for her graceful carriage, though her admirers were given to rhapsodizing about her neck with its swan-like curves. An interesting fact about literary women and one pleasing, no doubt, to brunettes is this, that almost all intellectual stars of feminine lore were dark in type.—New York Sun.

It is reasonable to suppose that as Ayer's Sarsaparilla has benefited others it will benefit you. No other medicine is so effective in producing a radical change in the blood and imparting renewed life and energy to the whole system, both nervous and physical.

TAKEN AT HER WORD.

She Gave Him a Lecture, But Didn't Illustrate It by Practice.

"You cannot always take your own medicine or even be measured by your own standards," said a woman recently who prided herself upon being exact and systematic in all things, and who could enjoy a joke even at her own expense. "I was at a reception not so many years ago," she said, rather demurely, "and was playing upon the piano to entertain a small group of friends, when a man who had shown me considerable attention suddenly interrupted me by asking:

"'If you were very much interested in a young woman, what considerations would prevent you from asking her to marry you?'

"Well, I, of course, was somewhat taken aback, and not being in the mood for a scene right then and there, turned around and answered: 'Well, I should never propose to a woman I have met only at receptions and in company. I should make it a point to call on her at all sorts of unexpected times, to see how she looked at home in the morning, whether she went about in an old wrapper, with disheveled hair, and slipshod; whether she helped her mother or lolled about reading novels until noon. A man makes a great mistake when he takes it for granted that the woman he admires possesses all the domestic virtues in the calendar and is always attractive and amiable.' In fact," she added, "I gave him a long lecture on the subject, for which he thanked me. I may add that I never met the man again. Next morning, contrary to my usual custom, I slept until nearly noon, coming down to a 12 o'clock breakfast. Mr. H—— had already called three times."—New York Herald.

TALLEST AND LARGEST FAMILY.

For years I have collected and carefully indexed every newspaper item in any way bearing upon the subject of the tallest and largest American family. From a careful analysis of this truly imposing array of giant literature I have come to the conclusion that the Pettijohn family of Walla Walla county, Washington, deserves the palm. My data on this score are hardly as recent as I would like; they are the "best in the shop," and are here given: The family consists of ten children, seven boys and three girls, the average height of the ten being six and a half feet and the average weight 244 pounds, including two children not yet grown. The "baby" is a boy of 17, who is seven feet and one inch high, and weighs 265 pounds.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Republican Expenditure.

To the Editor: The republicans never tire of telling what the G. O. P. has done for the country. For the benefit of the readers of the Bee I have made a comparison between the total expenditures of the government from 1791 to 1861, 70 years, and from 1861 to 1891, 30 years of republican rule. See annual report of the secretary of the treasury, 1891—page 104-109:

Gross Expenditures.
From 1791 to 1861.....$ 5,051,329,653
From 1861 to 1891..... 19,555,946,654
Total for 100 years....$24,607,276,607

Net Ordinary Expenses.
From 1791 to 1861......$1,632,926,079
From 1861 to 1891...... 8,359,446,212
Total for 100 years......$9,992,372,291

Thus you can see that it has cost over five times as much to run the government for 30 years under republican rule as it did for 70 years before they took charge of the government, and the gross expenditures has been nearly four times as great.

The average yearly net ordinary expenditures of the government compare as follows:

Average Yearly Net Ordinary Expenses.
From 1791 to 1861........$ 23,327,801
From 1861 to 1891........ 278,648,207

Thus you see that the yearly net ordinary expense for running the government has been nearly twelve times as great since the republicans have been wholly or partially in power as it was before.

This is one of the great things the republicans have done. For squandering the people's money, no one ever got along as well as they have. The expense per capita has been three times as great under republican rule as it was before.

OLD SUBSCRIBER.

The Question of Punishment in Public Schools.

To the Editor: As the mind of the public is being somewhat agitated at the present time over the conflicting opinions relative to corporal punishment in our public schools, I thought perhaps a few suggestions from one who has had some experience in the management or mismanagement of said schools might be appreciated at this time.

To begin with, I am not in favor of corporal punishment, as I think it a relic of barbarism that should be swept from the face of the earth with our advancing civilization.

Our law recognizes the necessity of abolishing the practice of cruelty to animals, and the mass of mankind are glad to see the law enforced, as every demonstration in the way of cruelty is but a manifestation of anger and unkindness.

Surely if the animal kingdom is to be protected from brute force, the continuance of such acts from people in responsible positions, and who are accepted as the guardians of our children, while under their care, should be met and condemned in a most peremptory manner.

The selection of superintendents should first be most intelligently considered—the qualifications embracing a person of good moral character as paramount to the educational principle, should be something more than name, and the love of justice greater than the love of power.

No person is exempt from a responsibility in this matter of public schools.

The law, which is the voice of the people, recognize the necessity of a practical education—consequently, it is the business of the public to see that proper persons are employed in that direction.

It not only involves a general responsibility and interest, but also a personal interest, for what affects one individual in this vast school system, affects to a certain extent, all.

It is a government in and of itself, more important in its influence upon the present and future generations than are the supposed higher forms of government to which we are subject as a nation; for the children of to-day will be the law of the future.

Then how and by whom should our children be taught? Shall we who live in an age of perfectness, such as the world has not known—whose banner of liberty we delight to honor, return to the old log school house with its high benches and uncomfortable surroundings, with a teacher, whose stern expression strikes terror to the infantile heart—backed as he ever was, with huge gads that the patient ox would shrink from, and a ruler whose thickness, as it descended upon the offender's hand or head—it did not matter much which in those days—would have compared favorably with the "loaded cowhide" of some of our modern teachers.

Be that as it may, we cannot go back, neither can we tolerate such implements of war in the public schools of to-day. The old Puritan blood that established whipping posts and delighted in torturing weak humanity has been modified under the truly Christian dispensation of the age, so that nothing remains but the relics which crop out every now and then among a class of people who have not learned to govern themselves.

Teachers in our public schools should not be selected simply through personal favor, nor because they stand in need of the almighty dollar.

A fitness of things should be considered. Book knowledge alone does not constitute a good teacher. There should be an adaptness to the situation—a decisive character with gentleness of manner, and, above all there should be love of children in the heart—hard to find, do you say? Not so—the world is full of gems in womankind and mankind also.

A required cultivation of the finer traits combined with the necessary education would fill our schools with teachers who would honor their calling.

As it is there are lovely women in the different departments upon whom I would not cast a shadow of reproach. Still I would call their attention to some of the seeming small acts of negligence that often injure the health of the dear little ones intrusted in their care.

A case came under my observation very recently, where the little upraised hands were not noticed, until, as a result, there was physical injury. When the teacher was made aware of this fact, and asked by the mother "if the little ones could not come to her (the teacher) if she did not see the raised hand, the answer was an emphatic no; and when told "that in that case the children must leave the room without permission, that, too, was met with the answer that it would not do."

School law without sense again. The above is one instance of what is constantly occurring in the daily schools which the younger treasures of the household are compelled by law to attend.

Let us—fathers and mothers—as law abiding citizens see to it that these laws are changed and that teachers and principals, including superintendents, are chosen who have the necessary qualifications for securing the best results—without cruelty or negligence. In conclusion, I will quote the illustrious Beecher on "The Government of Children."

"As for ourselves, we tried the rod on our own children, but are now trying the sugar-plum with our grandchildren. Thus far, our success is remarkable. Family government has risen in popularity. Children cry for it. Our children used to look with aversion on the spot where we locked up the switch; but now there is not in the whole house a place so favorite as the drawer where is stored the sweet moral suasion. Good conduct thrives; obedience is at a premium; the will is broken; the children are governed without knowing it. Blessings on sugar-plums."

IN A QUANDARY,

And Wants a Little Information to Help Make a Decision.

To the Editor: As an old-line republican who has always voted the republican ticket because the party has always nominated men who represent my principles, I am now in somewhat of a quandary as to how to vote this fall, and would therefore like a little information.

First, I would like to inquire as to what Mr. Ashley's position is on the various fundamental principles of the republican party. He has been a "know nothing," a "know something," a republican, a democrat, and now I don't know what he is. Now, if Mr. Ashley is all right on the important issues of this campaign, I would be only too glad to vote for him. But how am I to know Mr. Ashley's action and speeches are not all for appearance sake, that he really down deep in his heart means what he says, and that if Mr. Ritchie should not run away with the election, as he appears to be doing, and Mr. Ashley should really be elected, that he will stand by us and not play us some trick or other for the boodle there is in it? How do we know but he is making one speech now for the people to read and if in congress would be making others solely for himself?

I am very anxious to have Mr. Ashley answer these suggestions plainly, fully and satisfactorily. Otherwise neither he nor anyone else should make any objections to us good straight republicans voting for our own Byron Ritchie, whom we know all about and can rely on, than to vote for this ex-brigadier general from the other side, or possibly more properly the late general agent of Wright's Indian vegetable pills.

Mr. Ashley's associates and lieutenants do not lead us to place the utmost confidence in him. He has pledged himself to lead them to victory, and will be under obligation to them to place them in positions of honor and trust. For instance, there is scab lawyer Reno, late renegade from Cleveland. How would he look for United States circuit judge? A sweet judge he would make, wouldn't he? There is Second Lieutenant Fred Hancock. He'd make a nice United States court clerk, wouldn't he? Then there is Accidental Police Commissioner Doville, who don't care a d— for the laws of the state of Ohio or the city of Toledo, or any other when they oppose his wishes. He'd make a fine United States marshal, wouldn't he? Take the rest of Ashley's right-hand bowers, and all are entitled to special political consideration, and Commissioner Bower! and Moxie, too! Oh, dear! The thought of all this makes me sick. I do wish I could tell where Mr. Ashley really does stand, so I would know how to vote.

REPUBLICAN.

Nov. 3, '92.

JOHN W. SCHANFELBERGER,

Democratic Nominee for Judge in the Tiffin District.

The North Baltimore Times has the following reference to Mr. John W. Schaufelberger, the democratic nominee for common pleas in the adjoining district, who ought to be elected:

John W. Schaufelberger, lawyer and candidate for common pleas judge on the democratic ticket this fall, was born January 29, 1853, and peculiar as it may seem upon the same day as Byron Ritchie, our candidate for congress. Mr. Schaufelberger was one of nine children and at an early age exhibited an insatiable thirst for knowledge, but remained on the farm with his father until, at the age of 17, he began a collegiate course at Heidelberg, teaching school and working out during vacations. He supplied himself with means to complete a five years' course at that place, under the tuition of Dr. Willard. The same year he graduated at Heidelberg college. He began the study of law under Judge Seney, of Tiffin, O., and pursued his studies with great diligence, and was admitted to the bar in 1877, when he opened an office at Fostoria, O., and successfully practiced law there for five years.

Judge Seney, finding it necessary for the dispatch of his business to secure a partner, proposed a partnership to Mr. Schaufelberger, which was accepted, and the firm, whose name is so familiar in all courts of Seneca county and counties adjoining, was formed. During his five years' practice at Fostoria and his ten years' partnership with the firm of Seney & Schaufelberger, Mr. Schaufelberger has had an extensive experience in the practice of law, their firm having been employed in nearly all the important litigations of Seneca county, and many surrounding counties. Mr. Schaufelberger has built himself a reputation as a lawyer of much learning and brilliant advocacy. He is eminently fitted for the discharge of the duties of the important office of judge. He will weigh in golden scales the sacred rights of the people, honestly, faithfully and impartially, if he be the choice of the people. His election will be of great advantage to the taxpayer, inasmuch as his fitness will enable him to readily dispose of all technical questions and propositions with promptness, a much needed reform. While Mr. Schaufelberger personally entertains great respect to the opinion of others, though they differ with him, yet he has always been firm in his political persuasion, and active in political and social circles, highly respected by all who know him, and worthy of the suffrage of every voter.

MARLBORO, Ohio, April 14, 1892.

The Hand Medicine Co.

DEAR SIRS:—Having used nearly four bottles of your Colic Cure, I forward you this testimonial, hoping it may benefit many mothers with suffering babies. I am the happy mother of triplets, all girls; now 14 weeks old. When they were about 3 weeks old they were taken with a very severe attack of wind colic There were three days and nights I had two of them in my arms nearly all the time. I tried all the remedies I had ever heard of without any relief. A sample of your Colic Cure was handed me, which I used with the very best results, and I sent for more at once and I shall recommend it to every mother. I feel there is no language strong enough to express its value. I have also used several of the other Remedies and found each to be exactly as you represented them to be. I trust the Lord will forever bless you for procuring a remedy to relieve suffering innocence.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Prices Current for Produce and Other Articles.

The receipts of wheat at Toledo to-day are 21,437 bus less than on the corresponding Friday in 1891.

The receipts at seven points to-day the 102,914 bus in excess of 1891. At two northwest points the receipts are 45,961 bus less, and at five other points 149,875 bus more than in 1891.

As affecting values of wheat and corn to-day, there is no new element except that in the interior, receipts of wheat are decreasing, and it seems to us that the movement of winter wheat must soon decrease to the lake and river ports. Suppose interior elevators well supplied. They can hold it cheaper than Toledo or Chicago, and may not desire to send it forward. Receipts of northwest wheat are likely to continue.

There is a specimen of very tall corn stalks here this morning, but corn per stalk does not make a large showing, and an Illinois man says the yield from that stalk will be disappointing.

On the call December sold at 72 1-2c; May at 78 1-2c to 78 3-4c and to 78 1-2c, closing at 78 5-8c. On the regular board December sold at 72 1-2 to 72 3-4c, and closed at 72 1-2c; May sold at 78 1-2 to 78 7-8c, and closed at 78 1-2c.

Cash wheat was dull, and closed 1-4c lower. No. 2 soft sold at 70 3-4c; No. 3 soft at 62 3-4c, a gain of 1-4c; No. 4 soft at 54 1-2c; rejected No. 1 at 58@58 1-2c; mixed No. 2 at 68 1-4c; No. 3 at 60 3-4c; hard No. 2 at 66 3-4c; No. 3 at 61 1-2c; white No. 1 at 70c.

Rye about 56 1-2c for No. 2.

Oats about 31c for No. 2.

Corn—No. 2, 41c; No. 3, 40c.

Clover seed was not traded in so largely as of late, but prices continue to advance. On the call January sold at $7.25. On the regular board November at $7.25@7.30; December at $7.40; January at $7.40; March at $7.50; No. 2 at $7.10@7.20.

Wheat opened firm east and west and made a fractional advance, which was of short duration. The advance was lost and a little more, and closed quiet and steady.

Corn has been weak and has not exhibited much spirit and closes lower.

London, Paris and Antwerp wheat markets are reported closing higher.

The Glassboro Tract to Go At Sheriff's Sale.

John B. Ketcham Is After Mr. McLean,

Who Failed to Come to Time With the Cash, and So He Loses His Deal.

The large tract of land at Glassboro, sold some three years ago by John B. Ketcham 2d, to C. W. McLean for $38,000, is to be sold at sheriff's sale to-morrow.

Mr. McLean, when he purchased the property, felt disposed to turn the world upside down, but the old man struck a snag down east and, it seems, has been on his uppers ever since.

Mr. McLean made a splendid attempt to pull Glassboro out of a hole, but the fates were against him and he failed.

Mr. Ketcham came down from Chicago yesterday, and this morning said to a Bee that, by default of payment, the land would be sold at sheriff's sale to-morrow morning.

The original purchase price was $38,000, and of this it is understood Mr. McLean paid quite a sum.

Many will learn with regret that Mr. McLean's ventures here have turned out so badly.

Do Any of These Hit Your Case?

Thousands Have Been Spared Months of Distress and Suffering by the Use of a Simple Remedy.

Is Your Blood Pure, Vitality Low?

Use Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

I was a weak and miserable man completely run down a year ago last spring. I took DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY; it made me well and strong, increased my weight to 171 lbs., and although I am 71 years old I can do a good day's work with ease and comfort.

Are Your Kidneys Disordered, Bowels Constipated?

Use Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

I was very sick with Kidney Disease; had three different Doctors attending me, but I continued to grow worse. I then in despair took the matter in my own hands and commenced using DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, and before I had used the first bottle I was much improved, and another bottle completely restored me to health. I have recommended it to dozens of people and have yet to hear of one that has not been benefitted from its use.

Do You Have Pains in the Back, Headache, Dingy Colored Urine? Beware of these, they are Symptoms of Brights's Disease.

Use Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

I suffered from the above symptoms, neglected them and was finally obliged to take to my bed, which I kept for three years. Six different physicians attended me and they all pronounced my trouble Bright's Disease. I had given up all hope of ever being cured, when I happened to see advertised DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY. I bought a bottle, and when that was used I found myself a little better. I kept on using it and in a short time I was entirely cured. Can now work all day and weigh thirty-five pounds more than I ever did. If any one who may chance to read this has any of these symptoms, try this medicine for it will save your life as it has mine.

HOME MISSIONS.

Annual Convention of the Missionary Societies

Of the Toledo District Being Held at St. Paul's Church.

The opening session of the tenth annual meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary society of Toledo district was held in St. Paul's M. E. church last evening. Devotional exercises were conducted by Mrs. S. L. Roberts.

Mrs. J. W. Hett and Rev. S. D. Hutsinpiller made the addresses of welcome, and Mrs. Watkins, of Bowling Green, made an able response.

Instead of the platform meeting by officers of the national convention as per program, Dr. Dolby, of Washington, spoke on the Deaconess, a publication constituting plans of work, etc.

Mrs. Dolby followed with a short and interesting talk upon the same subject.

The meeting then adjourned until this morning, when Mrs. Williams, of Delaware, conducted devotional exercises.

The president, Mrs. C. C. Case, presided, and Mrs. F. M. Jaquet acted as secretary pro tem.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and accepted, as were also the minutes of last year's meeting.

The following delegates were then introduced: Mrs. Williams, of Delaware, and Mrs. Roach, of Washington, D. C., who have been in attendance upon the national convention held in Grand Rapids; Mrs. Squire, of Defiance; Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. Terry, Mrs. Van Aarle, Mrs. Watkins, Mrs. Ketcham, all of Bowling Green, and Mrs. Meyer, of Oak Harbor.

The following committees were then appointed, the first name of each committee acting as chairman of said committee:

On finance—Mrs. Watkins, Mrs. Terry, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Marvin and Mrs. Williams.

On nominations—Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. Hiett, Mrs. Stuart and Mrs. Longdown.

On home missions—Mrs. Bashare, Mrs. Ketcham and Mrs. Van Aarle.

On resolutions—Mrs. Munson, Mrs. Watkins and Mrs. Priddy.

An address on "Southern Work," by Mrs. Williams, was listened to with interest. She portrayed very vividly the necessity of the work which the home missionary society is carrying on and told of the various homes and schools which had been established—especially in the south—where the work was progressing nicely through the untiring efforts of those interested.

She related several amusing yet pitiful incidents in relation to the girls whom they were educating, which showed how much there was for them to learn when coming from their mountain homes, where they had had but limited ideas of civilization. This was a decidedly interesting address, appreciated by those who heard it.

Mrs. Roach then told of "Union Work," as it is carried on in Washington.

She also favored the organization of children's bands. She stated that in Washington the home missionary society and foreign missionary society united their efforts and hold their district meetings together.

Under this plan the work had broadened, the greatest good being accomplished for the greatest number.

Mrs. Roach is a decided advocate of the work, and her interesting talk was full of good points, which may be considered.

Mrs. O. K. Marvin read an excellent paper on "Young Ladies' Work." She urged the necessity of the work and gave a report of what the society was doing.

The meeting then adjourned until this afternoon. The ladies of St. Paul's church furnished an elegant noon lunch, of which all present were invited to partake.

The following program is being carried out this afternoon: Devotional exercises, Mrs. Roach, reports from different auxiliaries, report from corresponding secretary, reports from district treasurer, election of officers, echoes from national convention, talk on mite boxes, exercise by children's band, report of committees.

FAILED TO PAY.

Trouble in Settling for the Columbian Celebration.

New York, Nov. 4.—The auditing committee of the Columbian celebration committee, after much deliberation, has decided not to make any more payments to Capt. Thompson or the night pageant. Capt. Thompson has been paid $9,000 on account, and his bill for the remainder was $11,500.

This the committee decline to approve. The chairman of the night parade committee reported that Capt. Thompson did not live up to his contract. The committee say that Capt. Thompson failed in this in more than one sense, and specify that he failed to furnish costumes to the paraders as had been stipulated in the contract, and also that he failed to furnish illumination or pyrotechnic display.

TO THE WORKHOUSE.

Judge Sala Would Not Let Miles Off,

Even Though He Forfeited His One Hundred Dollars Bail—He Gets a Fine and Fifteen Days.

Last night the police made another raid on the gamblers, and broke up the place run by J. Miles, over Dickman's meat market on Monroe street. There were seven men engaged in playing the great American game of poker. These with the keeper, were taken to the police station. They were B. A. Mahan, T. Richards, Sam Schneider, P. M. Klute, James Hustler, John Jones and Wm. Stevens.

Their occupations as shown on the blotter were as follows: carpenter, cooper, butcher, shoemaker, etc.

All were admitted to bail in the sum of $15 each, with the exception of Miles, who had to put up $100.

This morning they did not appear in court. Miles was willing to lose $100, but the court did not think that punishment sufficient, so an order for arrest was issued, and he was again brought to the police station and fined $50 and costs and 15 days in the workhouse. The gamblers are all willing to pay fines, but going to the workhouse is a horse of another color.

Judge Sala is after them hot, and to the works they must go.

A GENERAL STRIKE.

New Orleans, Nov. 4.—From the present indications there will be a general strike all over this city Saturday morning which will involve 25,000 or 30,000 men. The merchants have refused to treat further with the men until all the strikers have returned, and of this there seems little prospect. Labor committees were in session all last night and this morning it is reported a general tie-up has been ordered.

Springfield, O., Nov. 4.—A gang of masked students of Wittenburg college committed an assault upon Wm. C. Prigsley, a student from South Charleston. He was thrown under a hydrant and held for five minutes until thoroughly soaked. The gang then tied him flat to a rail and beating him on the face en route dragged him to a creek, and after shaving part of his hair, threw him, still tied to the rail, into the water, where his cries finally brought help. The faculty will investigate.

NOTICE.

Fernando A. Crumb and Leila Crumb, his wife, whose place of residence is unknown, will take notice that on the 3rd day of September, 1892, Edward D. Moore as plaintiff, filed his petition in the Court of Common Pleas of Lucas County, Ohio, against them and others, the object and prayer of which is to foreclose two certain mortgages made by one William H. England to said Edward D. Moore on lot (25) twenty-five, block (24) twenty-four, Hicks Farm Addition to Toledo, Lucas County, Ohio. One made on the 3rd day of January A. D., 1891, to secure the payment of six promissory notes, each in the sum of $100, all dated January 3, 1891, and payable to said Edward D. Moore or order on the 1st day of July of the years 1892, 1893, 1894, 1895, 1896 and 1897, respectively, with interest from January 3rd, 1891, at six per cent. per annum, to be paid annually. The other mortgage made on the 26th day of March, 1891, to secure the payment of one promissory note of same date for $50, payable to said Edward D. Moore or order on or before two years from the date thereof, with interest from said date at six per cent. per annum, to be paid annually. Said petition alleges that said Fernando A. Crumb holds the legal title to said above described lot subject to the plaintiff's mortgage liens thereon. Said petition prays for the sale of said real estate to pay the sums due on said notes.

Said defendants are required to answer or plead to said petition on or before the 21st day of November, A. D., 1892.

REPUBLICANS

Hope to Carry the State of South Carolina.

They Base Their Claims on a Technicality.

The Tickets Are a Fraction of an Inch to Long

And Democratic Votes May Be Thrown Out.

The Coming Election May Show Many Fine Points That the Courts Will Have to Decide.

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 4.—There is danger of the loss of this state to Cleveland.

It was discovered to-day that a serious error has been made in the printing of the democratic electoral tickets in this state which will result in the entire democratic electoral vote being thrown out on account of illegal tickets, if the error is not corrected.

As it is, the tickets have been in the hands of the commissioners of election and county committees for some time and have been partly distributed.

Therein lies the danger.

It is hard to tell what proportion of the tickets that have been sent out from the state committee headquarters are illegal.

Most of those heard from are a sixteenth of an inch too long, some too small and some too large. The law says that they must be 5x2 1-2 inches in size.

The responsibility for such a serious error seems hard to fix. The tickets went through the hands of the executive committee.

W. G. Albergotti, on behalf of the executive committee of Orangeburg, who discovered the error, came to this city yesterday and called on Secretary Tompkins, submitting that all the tickets sent to that county for state and county as well as electoral purposes, failed to come up to the requirements.

Then it came to light that the discovery of the illegality of tickets had been made prior to the coming of Mr. Albergotti, and that Secretary Tompkins had ordered the printer to print new ones.

He says he cannot tell how many of the illegal tickets have gotten into the hands of the voters, but they were all distributed a week or so ago. He has sent out notices to each county chairman and all the commissioners of election and does not think any harm will come from it if they all act promptly and energetically. Mr. Tompkins fails to account for the error.

FORCE!!

Will Be Used in the Election

To Keep Harrison in the White House.

An Arranged Plan to Perpetuate Fraud.

And Make Poor People Pay the Taxes.

Will Good, Every-Day Working People Walk Up to the Polls and Crucify Themselves?

Washington, Nov. 4.—Solicitor General Aldrich, acting attorney general, in a formal and sweeping opinion, just rendered, as to the employment of United States marshals and supervisors at the polls, rules, in addition to the points previously covered, as to the rights of these officers to be present within the rails at the polling places, that the marshals also have the right to summon the sheriff's posse comitatus to assist them and also to call upon all organized military bodies for the same purpose.

The acting attorney general adds that the alleged instructions issued in New York, Arkansas and Alabama bring the state officers issuing them under the provisions of the United States laws as to conspiracy to obsruct.

As if prearranged, Attorney General Miller, in Indianapolis, says as follows:

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 3.—Attorney General Miller, who is in this city, was asked this morning about the circular issued by Mr. Sheehan, of the democratic national committee, relative to United States marshals at the polls on election day. The attorney general said that United States marshals were peace officers and expected only to perform their duty, which is to enforce the law. The matter rested in the hands of the acting attorney general at Washington, who would see that the law was obeyed and order preserved. Mr. Miller contemplated no trouble of any kind. Further than this he did not care to talk.

NOT PROVEN.

Dr. Heber Newton Is Not a Heretic.

The Verdict Was Rendered Some Time Ago But Is Just Made Public.

New York, Nov. 4.—"Not proven," is the verdict arrived at by the commission appointed more than twelve months ago by Bishop Potter to investigate charges against the Rev. Heber Newton, rector of the Episcopal church of All Souls, that he "uttered heretical sayings."

This verdict, which was signed by all the commissioners, was handed to Bishop Potter two weeks ago, but has not been made public.

Dr. Newton has been informed of it and now that the cloud that has been hanging over his head for a year has been removed he has asked his congregation for a twelve months' leave of absence in order to have complete rest and change.

TRIBUTE.

While it is over thirty years ago since Allcock's Porous Plasters were first introduced to the medical profession and public, the marked success and unprecedented popularity which they met with not only continues, but steadily increases. No other plasters have been produced which gain so many testimonials of high value as those continuously accorded to Allcock's Porous Plasters, and the only motive for these exceptional tributes lies in the fact of their being a medicinal and pharmaceutical preparation of superior value. Additional proof of the true value of Allcock's Porous Plasters lies in the fact that they are being largely imitated by unscrupulous persons, who seek to deceive the public by offering plasters which they claim to be the "same," "equal," "as good," "better," "best porous plaster," etc., while it is in general appearance only that they resemble Allcock's. Every one of the so-called porous plasters are imitations of Allcock's Porous Plasters.

Avoid dealers who attempt to palm off inferior and worthless plasters that are purchased by them at low rates for the purpose of substitution.

IN OLDEN TIMES

People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action, but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently cure habitual constipation, well-informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.

WINTER OVERCOATS!

It is astonishing what a trifling difference in cut and get-up makes one Overcoat a model of style and another a monument of slouchiness. Getting just the right goods built into Overcoats in just the right way is the secret of the elegant garments we are showing. The know-how must start with the looms; no let up till the tailor's finishing touch leaves the stamp of perfection. All of our fine Overcoats we selected from the materials, and had them made by the best manufacturers to our ideas of style and length. If you want the best Overcoat, latest style and best making, this is the store and the time.

Testimony in the Case of Private Iams.

Everybody Seems To Be Trying to Clear the Regimental Officer.

Pittsburg, Nov. 4.—There were about fifty people present when the Iams case was resumed this morning. Charles Hatfield, hospital nurse for the Tenth regiment, saw Iams strung up. The heel of his right foot was on the ground. Then Iams would change and rest on the balls of his feet. His arms did not appear to be very straight and the cord was not taut. Iams asked for a chew of tobacco, which he swallowed. Witness said: "Iams, you should not have taken that tobacco," and Iams said: ——— for a purpose." He said this while he was still strung up. About five minutes later Iams was cut down. He then said: "D—n the doctors; we will fool them."

Witness then poured the medicine out and Iams said: "Give me that canteen." He took it and took a drink and handed it to witness. There was beer in the canteen and Iams drank about half of it.

"I again said to Iams: 'Why did you take that tobacco?' Iams said: 'I did it to fool them: I had a purpose.'"

Monday after he was tied up I saw him in Homestead and asked him how he felt. He said he was all right. I asked him how his thumbs were, and he said: "They are all right."

Hatfield said Iams told him he would have been all right if he had not swallowed the tobacco.

Edward Dougherty, of the Tenth regiment, testified that he saw Iams after he was drummed out of camp and Iams had said he was all right, but he would get even with Streator.

William Berry Hill, not a member of the guard, saw Iams while he was strung up. Iams stood on the balls of his feet and part of the time had one heel on the ground. After he was cut down, Iams told him he felt all right and that his thumbs were all right.

On cross-examination witness admitted that he had knocked down a veteran of the late war because he said Iams' punishment was unjust.

Major M. W. Mowry, of the Tenth regiment testified about the orders of Iams' punishment, and showed with a rope over the thumbs of one of the court tipstaves how the close hitch was made.

OLD FINGER RINGS.

Queen Elizabeth had an immoderate love for jewelry, and the description given of her dresses covered with gems of the greatest rarity and beauty reads like a romance. For finger rings she had remarkable fondness. Paul Hentzner, in his "Journey Into England," in 1598, relates that a Bohemian baron having letters to present to her at the palace at Greenwich, the queen, after pulling off her glove, "gave him her right hand to kiss, sparkling with rings and jewels—a mark of particular favor."

Rings of Italian workmanship are remarkably beautiful. Venice particularly excelled in this art. In the Londesborough collection, says the Detroit Free Press, is a fine specimen. The four claws of the outer ring, in open work, support the setting of a sharply pointed pyramidal diamond, such as was then coveted for writing on glass. The shank bears a fanciful resemblance to a serpent swallowing a bird, of which only the claws connecting the face remain in view.

It was with a similar ring Raleigh wrote the words on the window pane: "Fain would I rise, but that I fear to fall," to which Queen Elizabeth added: "If they heart fail thee, do not rise at all," an implied encouragement which led him on to fortune.

In the Londesborough collection is a ring, doubtless a gage d'amour, the hoop of which is richly decorated with quaint floriated ornaments, cut upon its surface, and filled in with the black composition termed neillo, once extensively used by goldsmiths in enriching their works. This beautiful ring is inscribed within the hoop "Mon Cor Plesor," "my heart's delight."
